Antioch First pledges to provide high-quality village services

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

"Antioch First's third goal is to continue to provide high quality village services," said incumbent mayoral candidate Marilyn Shineflug. "The current administration has a strong record of providing excellent services through our public works department."

Shineflug explained that the department consists of 13 full-time and four part-time employees whose responsibilities include snow removal and the maintenance of streets, sidewalks, village parking lots, equipment, buildings, water and sewer systems and parks.

Dorothy Larson, incumbent candidate for one of the positions of village trustee and current chairwoman of the planning, zoning, building, public works and parks committee, said, "After much study, members of the village board including former trustee Taso Maravelas voted in 1997 and 1998 to support partial privatization of three programs. These programs included contracts for supplemental snow removal activities in certain areas of the village, contracts for the operation of the sewage treatment plant as well as the provision of related laboratory services, and contracts for limited janitorial services."

Larson detailed the savings for taxpayers by this privatization. "During the past three years, the village spent $70,098 for outside contractors," said Larson, adding this is the most critical area of manpower needs for the village. "If the village had not contracted (privatized) those services, the village would have been faced with the purchase of two, or possibly three, dump trucks at a cost of $55,000 each, or a total cost between $110,000 and $165,000...Using a conservative estimate of $10 per hour per employee, with benefits, the cost of manpower would have been between $126,980 and $190,470."

In terms of the privatization of the sewage treatment plant, Larson said, "The village's current contract to operate the sewage treatment plant and the industrial pretreatment program is approximately $212,000 yearly. Staff that was allocated to the treatment plant would have cost the village approximately $234,000 yearly based on wages and benefits three years ago."

"The village has received far better inspection reports from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) regarding both the treatment plant and the industrial pretreatment program since the change to privatization was made," Larson added.

The party said it plans to continue providing a wide range of programs and activities through the parks department, and sited the completion of the new building on Holbek Dr. as an example of the current administration's commitment. Larson explained that a park improvement plan is prepared with the help of the public works department and the park board. Part of this plan includes making recommendations to the village board about land donations and park impact fees that go into the park acquisition fund.

"The fund is used to create new park areas and update existing parks," said Larson. "The department strives to provide residents with the best programs, facilities and activities possible with the amount of staff and funding available."

Shineflug said that through her participation in the North Central Mayoral Task Force, the Metra's north central commuter service was able to expand into downtown Antioch. "The village played a key role in bringing the starting point of the Metra commuter line as far north as Antioch," said Shineflug. "When the village learned that locations south of Antioch were being considered as the starting point for service, the village helped negotiate Metra's purchase of the current coach yard site."

Shineflug concluded that the Antioch First party would continue to support the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO) programs.

"Regarding residential waste disposal, we support the continuation of a contract allowing for the pick up of one bulk item each week at no additional charge instead of only one or two clean up days per year," said Shineflug. "The village board approved this change in May 1998."

Osmond named minority spokesman

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

State Rep. Tim Osmond (R-Antioch) has been named minority spokesman to the commerce and business development committee, and will serve on five committees overlooking issues from commerce and business development to aviation.

"As a small businessman myself, I am excited about being named the minority chair of the commerce and business development committee," said Osmond. "There are many things we can do to lure business to Illinois and create a better environment for those who already work here."

Additionally, Osmond will serve as vice-spokesman to the insurance committee, and has been assigned to the aviation, judiciary civil law and registration and regulation committees.

"Most of the legislative work on bills is done in the committees," said Osmond. "We have a full schedule with much work to be done this session. I look forward to working with both sides of the aisle to find solutions."

Couples conference benefits all

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Couples Conference 2001 is coming to the Antioch Evangelical Free Church live via satellite from Branson, Mo. on April 6-7.

"This conference is geared to all marriages," said Tina Ottolino coordinator of the event for the church. "People often think that a couples conference is for marriages that are in trouble, but the theme of this one is how to be your mate's best friend and is about strengthening the marriage."

The two main speakers will be Gary Smalley and Dr. Chuck Swindoll. Smalley is president of the Smalley Relationship Center in Branson and Swindoll has his own worldwide radio program. Both men have written over 30 books a piece and speak to groups regularly.

"We have about 70 couples already signed up and we can accommodate about another 70," said Ottolino. "There are significant discounts for signing up early."

The cost per couple is $79 per couple, and those signing up after April 1 will pay $99.

The conference takes place on Friday night and all day Saturday. There will be a 90-minute break for lunch, but food is not provided.

Registration can be done online at www.smalleyonline.com or by calling toll free 1-877-324-3993.

Illinois Tollway announces I-Pass deposit reduction

Illinois State Toll Highway Authority officials announced a reduced deposit rate for all new and current I-Pass users. The number of I-Pass transponders issued to customers surpassed the 500,000 mark late last month. As a result of the tremendous support for the electronic toll collection system, Illinois Tollway officials have opted to drop the refundable deposit fees to $20 per transponder from the previous $38 rate. Customers signing up for automatic payment by credit card will receive an additional discount and pay a deposit fee of only $10.

New deposit rates will apply to all current and future I-Pass customers. All new customers signing up to participate in the I-Pass program will receive the new deposit rates either by calling 800-UC-IPASS, visiting the Illinois Tollway's offices in Downers Grove. All current I-Pass members will receive a transponder deposit reduction in the form of a credit to their pre-paid toll accounts. Cash refunds will not be issued.

For example, current customers who paid the initial $38 deposit and participate in the automatic payment by credit card program will receive a $28 credit to their toll accounts. Customers who paid the $38 deposit, but opt to pre-pay tolls by cash, check or credit card without automatic payments will receive an $18 credit to their toll accounts.

"Gov. George Ryan has called on the Illinois Tollway to stop up efforts to reduce traffic congestion and make travel on the Illinois Tollway System more convenient for motorists," said Thomas Cuculich, executive director, Illinois State toll Highway Authority. "As a result, I-Pass has become the cornerstone of our congestion relief efforts because of its effectiveness in keeping traffic moving. I-Pass Express lanes can process more than 2,700 vehicles per hour compared to manual lanes at 325 vehicles per hour, which leads to a significant reduction in traffic congestion."

The Illinois State Toll Highway Authority launched the I-Pass system in November 1993 on the North-South Tollway. All lanes in the Tollway's 93 ramp and mainline toll plazas are equipped with I-Pass. I-Pass users can pay tolls without having money on hand, rolling down the window, waiting for traffic or, in some cases, stopping. The Illinois Tollway offers dedicated I-Pass lanes including 16 Car I-Pass only lanes which allow I-Pass users to travel through toll plazas at 30 mph, 10 I-Pass Express lanes which allow cars and trucks to travel through at the posted speed limit, as well as a Truck I-Pass Only lane at the Cermak Toll Plaza on the Tri-State Tollway, I-294.

Transponders mounted behind the rearview mirror triggers a deduction of tolls from users' account balances. Successful transactions are confirmed by a blue light at the toll booth as users drive through I-Pass lanes. If a yellow light comes on as well that means a user's account balance has fallen below $10 and it's time to replenish the I-Pass account balance. I-Pass users traveling through manual lanes, without the blue lights, receive a thumbs-up sign from the toll collector and a wave signifying the transaction is complete.

Until recently I-Pass was only available to passenger vehicles, however the Illinois Tollway began allowing commercial vehicles, including trucks and buses, to use I-Pass last summer and has determined that the move is creating safer, more efficient travel through toll plazas for trucks and passenger vehicles alike. Illinois Tollway traffic studies predict the conversion of commercial vehicles to I-Pass, coupled with the addition of Truck I-Pass Only lanes, can potentially reduce motorists' wait times due to traffic congestion at toll plazas by 75 percent.

"Offering trucks the ability to use the I-Pass system will make a noticeable difference in congestion at toll plazas for all motorists, and creating special I-Pass lanes for trucks will make our efforts even more effective," Cuculich said. "If we can get truck traffic moving, all traffic will move faster and more safely through the toll plazas."

Initially, commercial vehicles that convert to I-Pass will be able to use I-Pass Express lanes, which allow motorists to continue through toll plazas at posted speeds, as well as manual toll lanes throughout the Illinois Tollway system which are all equipped to handle I-Pass users. Truck I-Pass Only lanes will offer commercial vehicles a third option for toll payments. The first Truck I-Pass Only lane opened in December 2000 at the Cermak Toll Plaza.

Construction of 13 additional Truck I-Pass Only lanes will be completed at an estimated cost of $7.1 million. Truck I-Pass Only lanes will be added at toll plazas on the Tri-State Tollway, I-294, at Irving Park Rd., Waukegan Rd., Touhy Ave., 82nd St., and 83rd St. as well as on the Northwest Tollway, I-90 at Devon Ave. and South Beloit toll plazas and on the East-West Tollway, I-88 at the York Rd. toll plaza.

More information about I-Pass is available on the Illinois Tollway's Web Site at http://www.illinoistollway.com.

Severe potholes forecast due to warming

With the first noticeable warming trend in over a month, the Illinois Road Builders Assn. is warning of severe potholes due to the warming trend.

"As the professionals who build the roads, we know what is involved in pavement deterioration," said Ken Aldridge, president of the association.

This winter's heavy use of salt is the critical factor for a bad spring. "When we build roads in the Chicago area," said Aldridge, "we obviously design them to withstand as much snow and cold as possible. But salting is inevitably going to shorten the life of a road, and this winter we've seen very heavy and frequent salting."

What causes potholes? Water expands when it freezes, and contracts when it melts, Aldridge says. So when snow is melted by salting, it seeps into tiny cracks in the pavement, and then freezes, expanding and cracking the pavement. When it melts again, it seeps deeper, and then re-freezes, doing even more damage.

Aldridge stressed that many area roads are in much better shape this winter. "Many roads have been rebuilt this year, thanks to Illinois FIRST, so they can withstand the winters much better than roads that were only patched during most of the 90s. And roads today are designed to last much longer than roads built 40 or 50 years ago. We're using better procedures and materials to prolong the life of the roads, and doing it more efficiently."

The problem, warns Aldridge, is with many of the area's older roads. "Unfortunately, most of the roads out there were built that long ago, and were designed to last only 30 or 40 years under very different conditions: less traffic and much less salt," said Aldridge. "So even those roads are significantly out-performing their design lives."

Trade In Your Old Wood Burner or Fireplace Insert Now & Save A Bundle!

Do you heat your home with a wood stove or fireplace insert?

Was your wood stove or insert purchased before July 1, 1992?

If the answer to both questions is yes, consider trading in your wood stove or insert for a cleaner burning gas, EPA-certified wood or pellet burning appliance.

Save up to 30% on your annual heating bill.
Old wood stoves or inserts require more face cords of wood during one winter to keep a home warm and cozy. New wood stoves or inserts are more than 50% efficient and use substantially less wood. Their efficiency also translates into less time needed to keep a fir burning hot.

Protect the region's natural resources.
Old wood stoves create unnecessary winter air pollution, affecting the air we breathe, the quality of our local lakes and streams and the health of our region's natural resources. New wood stoves are certified by the EPA to be clean burning and are more than 85% cleaner than old wood stoves. Pellet, natural gas and propane gas stoves and fireplace inserts are also cleaner burning options.

Reduce risk of chimney fires.
The production of creosote is one of the major problems associated with wood burning. Changing to a new wood stove can reduce the amount of creosote generated and can reduce the risk of chimney fires substancially.

The Great Wood Stove & Fireplace Changeout

February 1 - April 30, 2001

We will remove your old wood burner or insert and you will receive a $200 Trade-In Value from the State DNR, Plus receive up to $150 Off from The Alaskan Fireplace Co.

Bank offers Savers Club book

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The 2001 edition of the Savers Club discount book is available for order through the First National Bank-Employee Owned (FNBEO) for customers who have or sign up for either Common Sense or Eagle 50 checking accounts.

The books are similar to "Entertainment" books though smaller in size. The bank's marketing officer Karen Kubin said, "There are all sorts of coupons for both locally and nationwide. There is a section for hotels, car rental, movie theaters, theme parks, grocery coupons, Molly Maid and Harris Casino."

According to Kubin, the discount books are one of the benefits to having one of the package checking accounts. "The discount books are offered all year long," said Kubin. "In fact, once you have one of these accounts you get a new book every year."

Those interested in learning how to receive or reorder a 2001 Savers Club discount book should call 838-2265.

Additionally, FNBEO offers traditional banking services including vault deposit boxes, Freddie Mac Mortgages, installment loans and home equity programs.

Register now for Antioch's 'eggcellent'

Easter event follows parade

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The Antioch parks and recreation department will have its 10th annual "Eggcellent Easter Adventure" on April 7 at 11 a.m. at Williams Park immediately following the Easter parade that begins at 10:30 a.m. Registration is going on now through April 6 at the parks office located at 806 Holbek Dr.

The event is co-sponsored with the community development department and the Antioch Senior Center. According to parks director Laurie Stahl, the Easter egg hunt will be done in four groups based on age from one to 10 years old, and beginning with the youngest.

"We will be giving out two Easter baskets per age group," said Stahl. "After the kids collect their 10 eggs, they will look inside to see if there is a coupon for one of the baskets." Stahl added that the eggs are filled with candy and other treats besides the possibility of getting one of the two coupons.

After the egg hunt, the Easter Bunny will be at the Antioch Senior Center from 11:45 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Parents are encouraged to bring cameras and take pictures.

The event will take place rain or shine. Pre-registration is required. Children not registered by April 6 will not be able to participate. The cost is $2 per child for residents and $4 for non-residents.

For more information, call Stahl at 395-2160.

Candidate for trustee makes traffic safety a priority

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Scott Pierce, candidate for trustee of the Village of Antioch, vows to make traffic safety a top priority.

Pierce said one of his worst days was when he had to tell his daughter that her favorite dog had been run over and killed by a speeding car, and fears that the same thing could happen to a child one day.

"I will work to my utmost to promote a comprehensive plan based upon the three Es to ensure our residents, family members and children can walk together without fear," said Pierce. "The three Es are education, enforcement and engineering."

To achieve this Pierce said, "We must actively promote all residents traffic safety, we must work to ensure swift and effective enforcement or our traffic laws and we must begin engineering into every project traffic calming techniques such as raised crosswalks, speed humps and highly visible bike paths."

Current administration's accomplishments on web page

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The Village of Antioch's web page has been updated to include the accomplishments of the current administration that are under construction or have been completed since 1993.

Eighteen transportation projects are highlighted including the Orchard St. extension, Main St. rear parking lot improvements, Metra train station and coach yard and the sidewalk improvement project among others.

Thirteen water and wastewater projects are discussed and include the $100,000 grant to increase the size of the water main to improve water pressure for the Harden St. water main, Hennings Court and Hillside lift station replacements and the sanitary sewer rehabilitation project for the Oakwood Knolls area.

Building projects, six in all, include a new police department building, the east-side fire station on Deep Lake Rd. and the William E. Brook Memorial Wetland Sanctuary and Entertainment Center.

To see the entire listing, go to www.antioch-il.org and look under "Mayor's Desk."

Loon Lakes to ban fishing for specific game fish during spawning season

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The Loon Lakes Management Association, charged with the care of both east and west Loon Lakes in Antioch Township, is the first in the state of Illinois to impose site specific regulations against catching certain game fish during their spawning seasons.

Fishing for walleye is closed during the entire month of April, and fishing for largemouth bass is closed for the entire month of May.

"These are the first lakes in Illinois to do this," said Jim Hammerlund, secretary for the Loon Lakes management association. "This is done in both Wisconsin and Michigan. It gives game fish a chance to spawn without interference, and protects their spawning beds."

Other more restrictive regulations have been adopted for the lakes, and include lowering the daily creel limit to three fish per day with a minimum length of 16 inches for largemouth bass, a one fish limit for tiger and musky with a minimum length of 36 inches, lower the daily creel limit to two fish per day for northern pike with a minimum length of 28 inches and lowering the daily creel for walleye to three fish per day.

All of the other state rules apply when fishing on one of the Loon Lakes.

"The changes we've made are important," said Hammerlund. "People should know about them."

Take cues from lessons taught at school

OUR TOWN

Julie Murphy

Some of the lessons being taught in Antioch grade schools are ones that we should all try to carry with us.

At Emmons School, students from Kindergarten through fourth grade have taken a challenge put forth by the school's social worker, Beth Blockinger, to try to wipe out the existence of put-downs, name calling and teasing at the school.

Blockinger discussed with students some of the reasons why some choose to put others down, and the negative effects they can have on those on the receiving end.

As a symbol of their pledge, students have signed a banner indicating they have accepted the challenge to stop using put-downs, and to help other students do the same.

Blockinger has requested that families help these students reach this goal by reinforcing the lesson at home. Maybe we can go one better and offer community-wide support.

To be as good to the environment as to others, Emmons School collects paper items such as newspaper, magazines, catalogs and mail from the community 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

There is no financial commitment to those wishing to recycle these paper goods, and the school earns money for projects and equipment, landscaping, books and computers.

Donohue recycling, the "paper retriever," asks that the plastic wrappers be removed from newspapers before placing them in the green and yellow recycling bins at the school.

This one act earns two brownie points: one for recycling and one for supporting Emmons School.

POLICE BEAT

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ANTIOCH

Illegal possession/ transportation of alcohol

Justin P. Gudgeon, 20, of 2320 Comanche in Waukegan was arrested for driving with a revoked driver's license and for both the illegal possession and transportation of alcohol on March 3 at 2:03 a.m. on Cunningham at Depot.

Police observed a vehicle fail to signal as it turned onto westbound Depot. When stopped Gudgeon's identifiers were checked through LEADS and came back as revoked.

During the inventory for tow, a partially full 40-ounce bottle of beer was found adjacent to the driver's seat in the rear cab area. Alcoholic beverage was not detected on Gudgeon's breath, though he admitted the bottle was his.

He was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he was put through booking procedures and issued citations for failure to signal, driving with a revoked driver's license, illegal transportation of alcohol and illegal possession of alcohol by a minor.

Gudgeon was released on personal recognizance pending his March 28 court date.

DUI

Pierce E. Coleman, III, 27, of 192 Howard Ct. in Fox Lake was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol on March 2 at 3:36 a.m. at the intersection of routes 59 and 173.

Police observed a vehicle drive into the marked median of the intersection as it stopped at the light. After going through the intersection, the vehicle crossed the white fog line.

As the officer spoke with Coleman, he detected the strong odor of alcoholic beverage on Coleman's breath. He requested Coleman exit the vehicle to perform field sobriety tests. Coleman failed all tests.

He was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he refused to a breath test. Coleman was put through booking procedures and issued citations for improper lane usage, operating an uninsured vehicle, no seat belt and driving under the influence of alcohol.

Coleman posted his valid driver's license and cash for bond. He was released pending his April 20 court date.

Possession of cannabis

Brenda J. Mitchell, 33, of 7530 104th St. in Pleasant Prairie, Wis., was arrested for driving without a valid driver's license and for the possession of cannabis on March 2 at 2:06 a.m. on Main St. at Depot.

Police locked Mitchell traveling 42 mph in a posted 20-mph zone. When stopped, Mitchell told police she had let her driver's license expire. It was confirmed through LEADS that her license expired June 23, 1986.

During the inventory for tow, police found a gold pipe commonly used to smoke cannabis with residue on it in the car.

Mitchell was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where she was put through booking procedures and issued citations for no seatbelt, driving without a valid driver's license and possession of cannabis.

She was released on proper bond.

No valid driver's license

Christopher Mishaan, 31, of 293 Joanna Ct. in Antioch was arrested on March 2 at 1:17 a.m. for driving without a valid driver's license on northbound Deep Lake Rd. north of Stanton.

Police recognized Mishaan's vehicle from previous contacts, and had previous knowledge that Mishaan did not have a valid driver's license. Mishaan's identifiers were checked through LEADS/SOS and confirmed that he did not have a valid driver's license.

He was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he was put through booking procedures and issued citations for driving without a valid driver's license and for operating a vehicle when the registration is suspended.

Mishaan was released on proper bond.

LAKE VILLA

License suspended

Nathan W. O'Neill, 26, of 277 Oakridge Ct. in Antioch, was arrested by Lake Villa Police on March 1 at 8:59 p.m. west of Rte. 83 on Cedar Ave. He was charged with not using a turn signal and driving with a suspended license. He was released on an I-bond, pending appearance in Grayslake Branch III on April 11 at 3 p.m.

LINDENHURST

Obstructing an officer

Susan A. Sheldon, 29, of 12416 Antioch Rd. in Trevor, Wis., was arrested by Lindenhurst Police on March 3 at 10:20 p.m. at Fogcutter's Bar on Grand Ave. and Rte. 45, charged with obstructing a peace officer and failure to wear a seat belt.

The arrest followed a hit-and-run accident at Grand and Hillcrest. Police, investigating the incident, found the alleged offender, Fred J. Schneider, at the bar. He was taken to the parking lot to be identified. Sheldon, owner and passenger of the car he was driving, said she'd never seen him before. The driver and passengers of the car that was hit identified Schnieder as the driver. A witness also identified Schneider.

Sheldon, who was observed to have an odor of alcoholic beverage on her breath, said she let Schneider drive her from Lake Villa to Gurnee because she had been drinking. While heading eastbound on Grand Ave., a car stopped abruptly in front of her vehicle, and Schnieder struck the car. He then drove around the vehicle, and continued on. Sheldon claimed she asked Schneider to stop, but he kept driving until reaching Mulligan's bar.

Sheldon was served with a notice to appear at Waukegan courtroom C-405 on March 12 at 9 a.m., and released after posting a $100 cash bond.

Governor Ryan announces $500,000 to improve access to legal assistance

Governor George H. Ryan today announced that the Illinois Department of Human Services (DHS) will provide $500,000 to the Illinois Equal Justice Foundation for legal assistance for low-income persons.

"Access to the legal system is critical to a democracy founded on equal justice under the law," Ryan said. "The Illinois Equal Justice Foundation provides a way that eligible Illinoisans who cannot pay for legal assistance can receive a variety of free legal services."

The Illinois Equal Justice Foundation is a not-for-profit corporation established by law in 1999. The Illinois State Bar Association and the Chicago Bar Association appoint the Foundation's 12-member board of directors. The Foundation administers the Illinois Equal Justice Fund which supports initiatives to increase Illinoisans access to the legal system.

The Equal Justice Foundation will use the $500,000 to make grants to not-for-profit organizations in four categories: legal information for the public, mediation services, telephone advice and referral services and civil legal assistance. Services will be provided free of charge to individuals whose income is under 150 percent of the poverty level who are involved in non-criminal or traffic matters.

"The Department is pleased to partner with the Equal Justice Foundation to increase access to legal services for those in need of them," said DHS Secretary Linda Reneé Baker. "This award will allow us to provide unprecedented opportunity for low-income families to receive free legal services and assistance."

For more information, contact the Equal Justice Foundation at (312) 372-5906, extension 13 or 1 (800) 624-8962.

Police department saves money, reduces crime

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Over the past four years, the Antioch Police Dept. has succeeded in both saving taxpayers money and in reducing crime by 58 percent.

"We're proud we've saved citizens half a million dollars," said Chief Charles Watkins. "We've actively applied for all available grants, even at the federal level to purchase new bulletproof vests."

Watkins said he the success in reducing the crime rate is the result directing the department's resources to best serve the community. "Our budget has not increased, but we have been able to do things to bolster the reduction in crime rate because of the grants."

In 1999, the department applied for and received a Commonwealth Edison battery operated police patrol bike, valued at $1900, to assist the officer on bike patrol. "This bike saves half the time it would take to patrol an area on a pedal bike," said Watkins. "And, this is something we wouldn't have otherwise."

Grant money has been used to enable the department to put police officers trained as a school resource officer and a juvenile specialist at both the high school and at the upper grade school on a full-time basis.

A motorcycle patrol unit was created in 2000 due to the Harley Davidson lease/grant program. According to Watkins, the unit logged more than 2,500 miles patrolling parks and neighborhoods and doing selective traffic enforcement in areas of complaints.

Six Flags set to unveil two new hair-raising coasters

By TIM FROEHLIG
Community Editor

Six Flags Great America in Gurnee is set to unveil specific details about two new roller coasters thrill seekers will soon get the chance to tame.

Officials have scheduled a press conference, which will finally pull the mask off of months of secrecy surrounding the two state-of-the art rides that can be described as intimidating compared to existing rides in the park.

Previously, Six Flags General Manager Jim Wintrode stated that the Gurnee location was trying to instead of building roller coasters that are higher, in the 300-foot range, he will continue to concentrate on prototypical rides that are unique in some way.

A yet to be named roller coaster looking just like this one will soon make its debut at Six Flags Great America in Gurnee, ending months of speculation about what the ride will look like. At 185 feet, it is one of two new thrill rides the park is unveiling to the public in order to keep roller coaster enthusiasts happy.

Judging by the preliminary photographs the amusement park has issued, the two new roller coasters are definitely unlike anything riders have seen at Six Flags. The first ride, which is not yet named, will peak at a height of 185 feet. The ride is designed in a basic "U" shape. The train is propelled out of the loading area and up the first tower, which twists at the top. The train then falls backward through the twisting track, up the other tower and down again.

Though the set up is pretty basic, the thrill of this proposed roller coaster comes from its propulsion system. The ride uses a linear induction motor (LIM) to propel the train. The LIM uses magnet power to launch the train out of the gate. Within four seconds, the train reaches a speed of 65-70 mph.

The proposed coaster will replace the Whirligig attraction toward the northeast side of the park. In concept, the second ride roughly resembles the park's old "Tidal Wave" coaster.

Riders will board the train and be hoisted up to the top of one of two towers. The train is released and drops down the tower. The train then goes through what is known as a "boomerang," sending riders through a double loop as the track makes a 180 degree turn. After passing through a vertical loop, the train goes up another tower, which is parallel to its twin. Riders then experience the ride again, but in reverse.

The second coaster, which has been referred to as "Twin Towers," will reach a height of 180 feet at two points. It will have two upside-down loops, and that it will suspend riders underneath the track, allowing them to experience the upside-down portions of the ride through what are known as inverted loops.

Once riders experience the coaster traveling forward, momentum will allow them to experience the ride again, only in reverse.

Charity art auction features works by Jewish artists

A large number of paintings by Jewish artists will be sold at a charity art auction to be held from 7pm to 10pm on Saturday, March 10, in the showroom of Loeber Motors, 7101 N. Lincoln Ave., Lincolnwood.

The charity is CASA or Court Appointed Special Advocates, whose trained volunteers are the voice of defenseless children who through no fault of their own are in the court system. Judges say CASA volunteers make a difference in the lives of children.

CASA was the outstanding non profit organization of United Way of Lake County in 1999 and last year was the only organization to receive the coveted Liberty Bell Award from Lake County, Illinois.

The paintings, many of religious significance, will include the works of Marc Chagall, Ben Avram, Avram, Ebgi, Patricia Govenzensky, Samual Katz, Boris Schatz, Nava Shoham, Theo Tobiasse and others. The paintings, all beautifully matted and framed, will include originals and some prints, numbered and personally signed, said Sherry Loeber, chairman of the event.

Loeber said about 80 percent of the 250 paintings to be auctioned will be in the $50 to $300 range with the remainder priced for "seasoned art buyers." Paintings made by well-known artists include from Monet to Neiman, Picasso, Miro, and Rockwell. Disney and Warner Brothers will also be auctioned from the world of the abstract, impressionism, children's themes, modern themes, landscapes, seascapes and other master works.

Preview for the elegant artwork will begin at 7pm, with the auction beginning at 8pm. Beverages and hors d'oeuvres will be served throughout the evening, and accompanied with background piano music performed by Jason Peterson. Loeber added, "This will be a pleasant and elegant evening."

People who make reservations by March 3 with a $25 person donation will receive two free raffle tickets for works by Chagall. Couples who bring a second couple will receive a $20 gift voucher. To make reservations, please call the CASA office in Deerfield at 808-9154.

Volunteers are always needed to serve as advocates for innocent children who are placed in the court system. Anyone interested in learning more about how they can help an abused or neglected child can call the CASA office.

LOCAL DIGEST

Parent University at ACHS on March 10

Parent University, a one-half day program of workshops and presentations addressing issues of parenting and education, will be held at Antioch Community High School (ACHS) on March 10 from 8 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

The program will provide opportunities for parents to gather information and equip themselves with important skills for raising healthy young adults.

Keynote speaker Charlene Wenc will address the conference with her "Parenting - are we having fun yet?" presentation. Break-out sessions are scheduled to cover a variety of topics for parents with students in kindergarten through high school.

Agencies will provide information about family services at the resource fair. Books promoting the themes of Parent University will be for sale at the bookstore.

Registration materials are available at Antioch schools. For more information call Lori McKenzie at 356-1048, Amy Byrne 265-6261 or Linda Pohlman 356-7035.

Spring/summer brochures available March 19

The Antioch parks and recreation department spring and summer brochure will be available on March 19.

It will come home with children who attend Antioch schools. For households that do not have school-aged children, the brochure will be available at the parks office located at 806 Holbek Dr.

The brochure will have pool information in addition to the various classes and programs offered by the parks department.

For more information, call the parks and recreation department director Laurie Stahl at 395-2160.

Parks department offers new spring programs

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The Village of Antioch parks and recreation department is offering new spring programs.

Two Chicago Bulls Junior Bulls developmental basketball programs, differentiated by age, will be offered to teach both boys and girls the latest techniques of basketball including ball handling, passing, shooting, rebounding and defense.

"We've done a Bulls program in the summer," said parks director Laurie Stahl. "This is the first time they've offered one during the (school) year."

Unlike the week long summer camp that meets daily for three and one-half hours for a week, the spring course will meet one day a week for one and one-half hours over six weeks. In addition to increasing self-esteem and skill in the game, children will receive an autographed player's photo, a Junior Bulls T-shirt and membership in the Junior Bulls birthday club.

For pre-schoolers between the ages of 2 through 5 years old, two new programs will be held at Party and Play at Choosey Child on Main, journey to imagination and story time with your favorite character.

Journey to imagination is an opportunity for parents and children to challenge their imaginations when each week they are to express themselves in different roles such as astronauts or rock stars.

Story time with your favorite character offers weekly sessions of singing, dancing and interacting with favorite storybook characters. Children are encouraged to bring a favorite item featuring the week's character to share with the others.

"We're always looking for things for the pre-schoolers," said Stahl. "Barbara Porch came up with the idea, and we've already signed some children up for the classes."

Two classes are being held for each in the age groups of two and three year olds, and four and five year olds. Class size is limited to 15 per class.

Registration for all of these programs is taking place through April 3. All sessions begin on April 4. A second session for journey to imagination and story time with your favorite character begins on May 23-24.

For more information, call Stahl at 395-2160.

Historical Society is one step closer

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

If all goes well, the Lakes Region Historical Society will close on the purchase of the property adjacent and to the south of the Episcopal church it acquired last fall on April 27. The initial closing date was to have been Feb. 28, but some problems arose preventing that closing date.

Historical society president Bob Lindblad said, "It seems the difficulties have been worked out and we have a signed document. This date would be good because we take over the church on May 1, and that way we could take over this property at the same time."

When the historical society had initially discussed purchasing the property to the south of the church, the idea had been proposed to use the property for a park and to have some handicapped parking available. It was suggested that the park be named for Dolly Spiering who bequeathed a large sum of money to the group that enabled it to purchase the church and the property surrounding it.

Permits have been obtained for the demolition of the store and greenhouse on the property referred to as the Lasco property to the north of the church that was purchased by the historical society earlier this year.

"We're going to use much of the property for parking," said Lindblad. "There is a house on the property that will stand at present. We've talked to a local artist group that may be interested in using the house to hold classes and display artwork, making it kind of a cultural center...We're not sure if we really want to be landlords, or if the house will really fit their needs, so we'll see."

Legat Architects, the firm that built the addition to the Antioch Community High School, has been hired to return the appearance of the church to that of when it was built in 1862. Work is expected to begin early on in May.

"They have started the plans," said Lindblad. "They say if everything goes well the building will be back to its 1862 appearance by the end of October."

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Lynn Pringle

Well the trip was nearing its end. The Pringle clan had barely survived spending seven days with 43 friends and relatives on a Disney World extravaganza that was not a very magical experience. We spent three days tooling around the various theme parks in cold and rain, and then we spent four days bobbing around the Atlantic Ocean in cold and rain and 20 foot swells.

But now we were back in port and getting ready to disembark the ship. One doesn't simply get off a ship, one must disembark. Now up until this point of our journey, we never had to touch our luggage; the folks at Disney delivered it from our house to our hotel room and then to our stateroom. But now the trip was over and our bags were left very unceremoniously in the ships holding area and we were on our own.

The disembarkation area was yet another reminder of how grim our journey had been. Before now, wherever we went, whether it was downtown Disney or Castaway Cay, everything was shiny, polished, colorful, bright and cheerful. The disembarkation area was nothing more than a cold warehouse type room with cement pillars and concrete floors. Not a single Disney flourish to keep our magical dream alive and kicking; not a sole Disney character was no hand to send us on our way. It seemed that our credit cards were at their max, so they were moving on to the next batch of eager tourists.

We were dumped at the Orlando airport and once again faced carrying our own luggage because no skycaps could be found. once we got settled at our gate, I went off in search of some gum for the flight home. The "oh-so-very-unpleasant" gift shop employee took great pleasure in telling me that it was against some unwritten law to sell gum anywhere on the premises of the Orlando airport. "It gets into the carpeting" was her coined response. As I gazed upon row and row of candy, chocolate bars, lollipops, soap, deodorant, shaving cream and various other airport essentials, I shook my head in disbelief. Not a single stick of gum could be purchased. Isn't it a written law that one must not fly with young children without gum—how else does one keep their ears from exploding and emitting ear wax all over those oh-so-comfy airplane pillows?

In my catatonic state, I purchased a Snickers bar, turned to exit the store without looking to my left, slammed into a gentleman buying toothpaste and dropped my candy bar. Before I could scoop the fallen chocolate bar up off the floor, a skycap pushing a cart loaded with 900 pieces of luggage, desecrated my Snickers with one of his wheels. The weight of the cart caused the bar to ooze chocolate onto, into, under and over the carpet. In my state of momentary horror, I turned to the store employee, and for the first time in seven days, I smiled.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Treat snow-laden trees cautiously

December's snow, ice and cold weather have left many shrubs and trees throughout northern Illinois weighted down and bent, with some to the point where breakage may even occur.

"With proper care and patience, though, the plants can often recover," said John A. Church, University of Illinois Extension Educator, Natural Resources, Rockford.

There are different approaches to handing a snow or ice problem on different types of plants. On evergreen shrubs and trees, Church advisees taking a "wait and see" approach as much as possible. Let Mother Nature reduce the problem by allowing the ice and snow to melt. Do not force ice and frozen snow of branches, which can cause more damage. Loose snow can be brushed off to help reduce the weight load. Broken branches that present a danger to people, buildings, other parts of the tree or to surrounding plants can be cut off and removed if conditions permit. Use boards or other props under heavy-laden branches to help reduce further breakage. Carefully remove heavy snow that has been piled on shrubs from shoveling or plowing.

It may take some patience to deal with evergreens by letting the snow melt and then letting the tree or shrub regain its natural shape, especially if the winter weather continues to be cold and snowy. Some branches may need to be pruned out next spring, while some may remain bent for a year or more, but give time to help the tree regain its appearance before doing any severe pruning.

On deciduous trees, icing may cause more damage than heavy snow. Even if the damage is severe, the tree can usually be saved with proper pruning and care. The trees may not be "pretty" again right away, but most should recover well. Pruning cuts should be made flush against another branch if possible and do not leave small stubs at the ends of branches after pruning. If a branch has completely been broke off the tree, removing the damaged stubs will help keep the tree healthier. Stubs are more susceptible to allowing decay and disease to enter the plant.

Fertilize and water the damaged trees and shrubs properly next spring, Church said, noting that stressed and damaged plants are the most susceptible to disease, insect, and weather related stresses. It will also help promote new growth to replace the damaged areas.

Be careful to protect the plants from additional damage, but also protect anyone working around snow covered plants or doing trimming or other repair work. Don't stand below heavy-laden limbs when working on the plant. If pruning is needed, homeowners may need to contact professional tree trimmers to safely and properly repair large trees. Church advises obtaining several bids and asking each contractor to explain their procedures in advance.

Information on repair pruning, ice-tolerate trees, general maintenance, and other information is available through the Lake County Unit office of University of Illinois Extension, located in Grayslake, phone 223-8627.

Congressional Medal of Honor to Sgt. Andrew Jackson Smith

In a White House ceremony this morning, President Clinton awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor to the late Color Sgt. Andrew Jackson Smith, a resident of Clinton, Illinois, who fought in the Civil War.

U.S. Sen. Dick Durbin (D-IL), along with now-retired U.S. Rep. Tom Ewing (R-IL), spearheaded the effort seeking congressional approval of the honor. Durbin, who learned of the soldier's Civil War heroism more than two years ago, personally took up the cause, questioning U.S. Defense Secretary William Cohen and other military officials about why the medal had not been awarded to Smith.

"Sgt. Andrew Jackson Smith's actions in the Battle of Honey Hill, heroic by any account, are even more remarkable considering African American soldiers faced certain death or a return to slavery if they were caught fighting against Confederate troops," said Durbin, who serves on the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Defense. "Sgt. Smith brings honor to us all."

The medal ceremony in the Roosevelt Room of the White House comes more than 136 years after Smith's heroic efforts in the Civil War. Smith, born into slavery in 1842, escaped to freedom in Illinois at the age of 20 and worked there as a servant for an officer in the Union army. After recuperating from wounds suffered in the Battle of Shiloh, Smith joined the 55th Massachusetts Colored volunteers.

On Nov. 30, 1864, while fighting in South Carolina's Battle of Honey Hill, then-Corporal Andrew Jackson Smith saved his unit's colors after both flag bearers were killed by Confederate fire. Making himself the prime target for enemy troops, Smith continued to carry the flags through the rest of the bloody charge.

A surgeon in Smith's unit, Dr. Burton G. Wilder, nominated Smith for the Medal of Honor in Dec. 1916, but the nomination was denied less than two weeks later. Although the War Department then cited a lack of evidence in denying Wilder's request, the rejection is more likely to have been racially motivated. Of the 1,196 Medals of Honor awarded to Civil War soldiers, only 16 were presented to members of the United States Colored Troops.

The family of Sgt. Smith, who died in 1932 at age 91, researched records of the Battle of Honey Hill and uncovered evidence proving his heroism. Smith's grandson Andrew Bowman, along with Illinois State University history professor Sharon MacDonald and her graduate student Robert Beckman, brought the newfound evidence to Durbin's attention, who urged the U.S. Department of Defense to reconsider the 84-year-old decision.

President Clinton signed legislation honoring Color Sgt. Andrew Jackson Smith with the Congressional Medal of Honor on June 2, 2000. The Medal of Honor is one of the United States' rarest awards, having been presented to only 3,452 military veterans since 1861, fewer than 150 of whom are alive today.

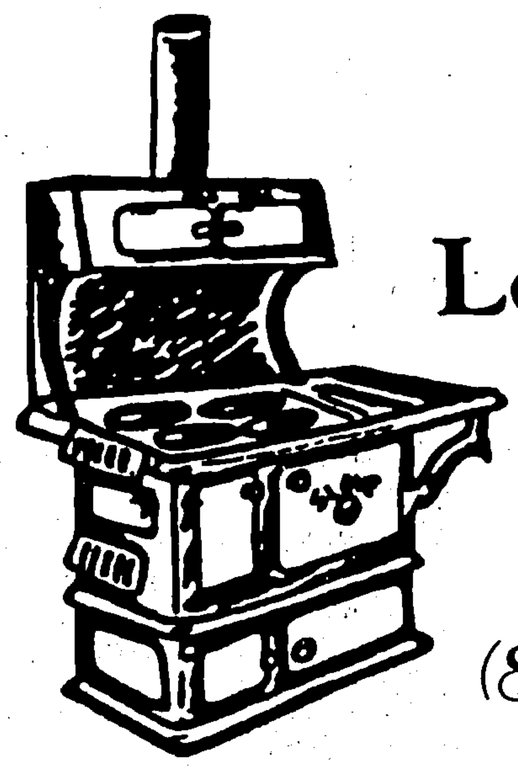

Attending this morning's White House ceremony along with Durbin was 92-year-old Caruth Smith Washington, Sgt. Smith's daughter.

"A wrong righted 84 years too late is a wrong righted nonetheless," Durbin said. "This day has been a long time coming. But, with the dedication of his family and the Illinois State University History department, Sgt. Andrew Jackson Smith's contribution has finally taken its rightful place in history."

Ready to rumble

Fans of all ages flocked to him. Fact is, former WWF legendary wrestler King Kong Bundy is not hard to miss.

"I came here just to see him," said Michael Rivera, age 9, of Norridge. "I was sad though when he lost (in his match)."

The 400-plus giant of a man Bundy lost his heavyweight championship belt in a handicap match to the High Rollers.

The match was just one of seven on the Midwest Championship card the evening of March 3. The event, held at the College of Lake County Physical Education Center, drew several hundred fans with proceeds going towards the Lancer baseball team.

"I thought it was a tremendous success," said Athletic Director and Head Baseball Coach Gene Hanson. "We're planning on trying this again sometime early next fall. It was a great show."

Actually, a return date is scheduled for Sept. 29 at CLC.

And great show it was. You could sense that when ring announcer and MCW wrestler Mike Webb, a.k.a. Kiss, was attacked by the High Rollers right after the national anthem.

From there, fireworks were in store for the ensuing three hours, much to the delight of the crowd.

The main event pitted Christopher Daniels, recently signed by the WCW, against 'Ice Pick' Vic Capri for the MCW Lightweight title. Unfortunately for Daniels, ECW superstar Chris Chetti interfered and Capri wound up prevailing by pinfall.

Chetti had won his match earlier over the vocal Wreckless Youth.

Incidentally, Daniels, Capri and 'State of the Art' Jayson Reign are all in the top-500 world rankings, according to Pro Wrestling Illustrated. Reign was outlasted by Donovan Morgan in a preliminary match.

Fans were even more aroused when Bo Bo Brazil, Jr. took on Las Vegas' Diceman Ronnie Vegas in a hardcore street fight. As many fans like to see these days in wrestling, a winner was never declared as the match, which involved tables, was taken back to the locker room.

In other action, Magnificent Mike defeated J. Jensen, while the high-flying Airborne, out of McHenry, was triumphant over the Irish Assassin.

"We've changed about 80 percent of the show from last year," said MCW CEO and President Brian Zenner. "Every match is different. Each wrestler (and match) has its own storyline. We also have a variety of talent, from the younger high flyers to the 'old school' wrestlers (like Bundy)."

Zenner took command of the MCW when it was formed about a year-and-a-half ago.

"I was always a huge fan and wanted to be involved," he said. "I did my research and paperwork and here we are. And Chicago is a big wrestling town, so we want to bring in the best of the best."

Zenner also said because MCW is independent, a wide variety of wrestlers sign with MCW.

"There is no contract with independent shows," he said. "Wrestlers basically come here to get experience. Many have their sight on getting signed by the WCW or WWF. But many are here simply because they like to wrestle. Either way, there's a lot of dedication involved."

MCW usually holds shows every two weeks. The next is slated for Frontier Park Fieldhouse in Chicago Ridge March 30.

'Off The Top Rope', which highlights MCW happenings, is a cable access show airing on Ch. 17 on Thursdays from 8-9 p.m.

"We've gotten a great response," said commentator/co-host Danny Bartels. "We cover everything in general, from the MCW to the WCW and WWF."

Bartels also serves as co-host to Brian Schenk on a weekly radio show, which airs on Saturday's from 10 a.m.-12 noon on WEEF AM 1430.

Magee Middle School in Round Lake had three wrestlers qualify for the state meet March 9-10 at Northern Illinois University.

Look for complete sectional and state results in next week's edition of the Clipboard.

ACHS dance team leaves it all on the floor

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

Leave the floor with no regrets!

That's part of the message inscribed on the back of the T-shirts worn by the Antioch varsity dance team.

Fact is, they leave more than just their efforts on the floor - try the opponents, at least when it comes to state tournament competition, to which the team is no stranger.

And the 2000 state champions took another step closer to repeating as champs when it captured the Rockford Harlem supersectional March 2. They accumulated 179 points out of a possible 200 in a field consisting of 193 routines.

"We were ecstatic," said junior Kym Boyer. "It's a lot of preparation but also a lot of fun. People always come up to us after a routine. We love to dance and you can see it on our faces."

Like many of the 46-member squad, 26 of which are varsity, Boyer has been dancing since a very young age.

"I started when I was about 3 (dancing in studios)," she recalled. "I took my freshman year off (from dancing) because I was moving from Norfolk, Virginia. My mom, whose in the Navy, got transferred to Great Lakes. They didn't have any dance teams down there, just Majorettes and band. So I started dancing in studios around here and neighbors would see us and say, why don't you try out for the team."

Sophomore Kari Hintz is another varsity member whose been dancing since she was 3. Hintz made the varsity squad last year as a freshman.

"My sister (Krista, now attending the University of Iowa) danced on the team, so I learned a lot and got the idea from her," she said. "I love to perform in front of a crowd - I'm used to it. Some of the girls get nervous, so the one's that are used to it help calm them down."

Captains Cory Gardell and Megan Engelmann, along with co-captains Kelli Cozart and Sarah Effinger, have also played significant roles in helping team members along.

"They really help us out and motivate us " said Boyer.

As far as their routines are concerned, 'kick' routines, as they are called, are not as easy as they look.

"It helps having a creative routine and choreography," said Hintz. "Anyone can kick a straight line. But to add different moves and steps to make it more colorful requires a lot of concentration and practice."

In competitions, the kick routine, which Antioch took first in at Rockford, requires a minimum of 50 kicks. In the prop routine, which the Sequoits took second, it basically a kick routines incorporating various objects, such as flags or chairs. Points are deducted if one of the props fall and/or is kicked while on the ground.

'It's a lot of preparation but also a lot of fun. People always come up to us after a routine. We love to dance and you can see it on our faces'

Kym Boyer, ACHS dancer

The colorfulness of its routines can be traced to head coach Joy Edge and assistant Dee Anderstock.

Edge, responsible for most of the choreography, has also danced since she was 9. She has served as the head coach for almost nine years.

"You just see things while driving, or you hear a song and ideas come to mind," she said.

The school has had a dance team since 1981, with the highest finish in the state series (before last year) being second.

"This team is very comparable to last year's. We have entirely new people, but I think the difference why we're so successful this year is having tremendous senior leadership. The girls are also very talented and dedicated and love to dance."

According to Hintz and Boyer, the season officially starts at the beginning of the school year.

But camps and competitions are ongoing throughout the summer.

Northern Illinois University holds a week-long camp during mid-summer.

"There's people from all over who attend," said Hintz. "You get paired off with a Pon-Pom member. You basically hang out with each other all week. You go to bed late and wake up very early. Then all you do is dance all day. It's very tiring but great for your endurance and conditioning."

At the end of the camp, they have a 'Show Stopper' Award, given to the best dancer. All perform the same routine.

Last year, Gardell took the honors.

After the state series, a clinic will be held April 17-19, with tryouts for next year's squad taking place April 23.

"It's really a bonding experience," said Hintz. "You develop some really good friendships. You're also a cohesive unit because everyone has to be on the same page with the routines."

In addition to the aforementioned, members of the defending state champions include Katie Bregenzer, Megan Hagglund, Tristan Gandolfi, Brittany Berman, Tina Bugailiskis, Mandy Vickers, Lindsey Bailey, Heidi Soder, Lindsay Bolton, Ashley Ginascol, Andrea Moore, Jenna Diemer, Megan Genengals, Lauren Popp, Heather Axton, Amanda Ryzsko, Erica DeMeyer, Krisel Sikora, Erica Fini and Kaja Mikolavic.

The team normally practices Monday from 4-6:30 p.m. and Tuesday and Thursday from 3:30-6 p.m.

Sequoits valiant effort falls just short against Devils

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Three Antioch High seniors took on the Warren mystique at the regional championship level.

No, the trio did not pull off the upset and beat Warren and continue their careers this week at the Waukegan Sectional. But Eric White, Ari Brown and Adam Durham combined for 32 of 36 ACHS points and pushed the outcome to the final minutes before Warren prevailed 42-36.

The seniors showed composure as the Sequoits recovered from a 13-2 Warren run to earn a tie at 28-28. Brown and White had 13 points each, and four three-pointers between them. Point guard Durham accounted for six points.

The seniors weren't the only contributors. Junior center Josh Bonner held Warren's Mark Klemm, with help from teammates, to just three points. Junior forward Tom Woodruff came in and had a key third-quarter basket.

"Bonner, the past couple of games, has played tremendous basketball.

Brown hit two three-pointers as an inspired Antioch team came ready for the second half, down 24-15. ACHS dominated the third stanza, 13-6, and had Warren confused.

"Those were big, if there was a four-point swing, and then we are down 13. Our defense stiffened up, too," Dresser said.

"White is supposed to take a lot of shots. He is one of our best shooters. Matt Vandaele is a tough kid — perhaps it was from football," Dresser said.

ACHS concludes the year 13-15.

Vandaele was the difference with 9 points. Fellow senior Aaron Moore led Warren with 14 points and Russ Schaibly had 10 points, all coming at critical times. Junior Quentin Herring had six points when Warren was in its second and third quarter slump. Warren was sent to the free-throw line 15 times, but only made 6.

"Vandaele had to do a good job of getting through the screens and he did. We had to help off the screens," said Warren Coach Chuck Ramsey.

"We knew they would be physical. It is hard for us to simulate that in practice," Dresser said.

Warren thrilled the near capacity crowd with an 11-0 start. Moore, Schaibly for a three and a two and Klemm and Moore again got things started as Warren made 6-of-9 shots.

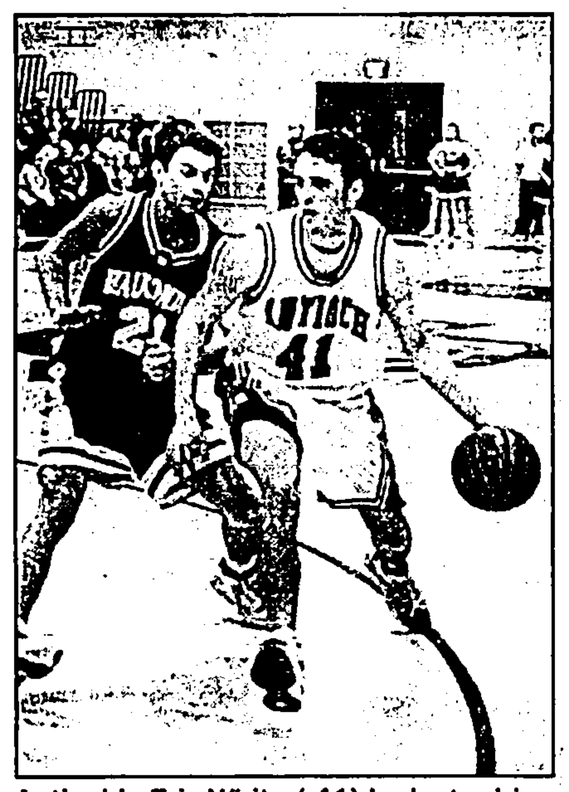

Antioch climbed back into the game by the end of the first quarter, as there would be no quick knockout in this battle of rivals.

Warren opened up an eight-point lead on a slam from the baseline by Moore with 5:40 left in the second. But it took a wing shot by Vandaele to keep Warren ahead at half-time.

In the third, Antioch challenged, but never came closer than two points down, the last coming on a tip-in by Brown at the 2:23 mark.

Warren regrouped for a key 12-6 run that all but settled yet another regional title.

ACHS plans to look to next year, with more focus on NSC Lake games. Jeff Huebner, Andrew Judson, Brian Walsh Justin Mehaffey, Allen Patin, Ryan Moxley, Woodruff and Bonner form the nucleus of the next Antioch squad.

Lake Villa Football & Cheerleading registration dates set

Lake Villa Township Football is a program for the children of Lake Villa Township and surrounding areas to play football and cheerlead in an organized league. As of Nov. 6, 2001, eligibility requires the participant to be between the ages of 8-14. At the time of registration you will need to bring payment and a copy of your childís birth certificate. Measurements for uniforms and equipment will also be taken at that time. Participants must attend registration.

Registration dates have been scheduled throughout March and April. March dates include the 21st from 6-8 p.m. and the 24th from 9 a.m.-12 noon. In April, one can register on the 18th from 6-8 p.m. or the 21st from 9 a.m.-12 noon. The registration fee is $95 for football, cheerleading and the pom squad. Note that there will be a $10 refundable fee per family, returned after volunteering for the concession stand, scoreboard, chaingang, etc. There is also a $10 discount for each additional family member.

The registrations will take place at the Lake Villa Township Office Building (Caboose Park), located on Rte. 132 and Fairfield Rd. in Lake Villa.

There are nine levels of play for football, ranging from Bantam (age 7-8, 72 pounds) all the way up to Heavyweight, for which the maximum age is 14 with no weight limit.

Cheerleading will have six squads, also starting with Bantam (7-8-year-olds) and ending with Pom Squads, for sixth through eighth-graders.

Cheerleaders, girls third-grade and older, will have the option of Saturday or Sunday games on a first come sign-up basis. The Pom Squad, girls sixth through eighth-grade, are welcome on a first-come, first-serve basis. All girls will be placed on the appropriate squad based on their skill level, ability and age. Note: There will be a mandatory assessment clinic on April 10-12, for which you must be registered to participate.

Home football games are played at Lake Villa Township Park, or Caboose Park. The season runs from September through early November. Practices are normally Tues., Wed. and Thurs. starting the second week in July for cheerleading and July 30 for football.

The organization's first event of the year is Lindenfest, where the cheerleaders perform. Interested coaches may contact Gary Cukla at 265-1755 for more information. Interested in coaching cheerleading, please contact Alicea Morton at 356-8772.

A fund-raiser is also scheduled, where all children are requested to participate. Sell 25 raffle tickets at $2 each. If you acquire a $60 donation from a business that would support the Timberwolves program as a sponsor, you will earn a Timberwolves jacket with the new logo. Other options for winners include a hooded, pullover or regular jacket. For further information or details, contact Elizabeth Peterson at 265-0825. The money collected for the fund-raiser will be due on July 30.

Not all of our returns are complex and include a Schedule C with a Form 4562, Depreciation and Amortization. Just the really fun ones.

H&R Block does more complex tax returns than any CPA firm in America.*

the information REVOLUTION

Much of Lake County finds itself with new library facilities, allowing for new choices, additional opportunities.

By Tim Froehlig • Community Editor

Everywhere you look these days you see the same things — new houses, new businesses, and at times, even new roadways.

With population consistently on the rise in Lake County, many area libraries have either expanded or renovated their current facilities, or simply asked voters for money to build a new facility.

Over the past several years, Lake County has been home to some dramatic changes when it comes to the type and amount of information now available to residents on a daily basis.

Fremont Twp. and Grayslake have become home to new library facilities. Similarly, Round Lake and Lake Villa District have renovated their locations, while Libertyville is still looking to either expand its facilities or construct a second library branch in the near future.

Earlier this year, officials unveiled the Fremont Twsp. Public Library, located at 1170 N. Midlothian Rd.

The 58,000 square-foot facility is more than three times the size of the former building, which was 13,000 square feet.

The library can hold 200,000 items, and has many amenities that the former library did not have space for, such as a 144-seat conference room, six study rooms, 24 public-use computers, and a computer training room.

Late last year, the Round Lake Area Library closed its doors to conduct an interior move. A contractor was hired to move all of the children's materials to the basement of the library. This move was a win-win situation for those young and old. Before the transfer, the children's reading area was located at the front end of the library's ground floor.

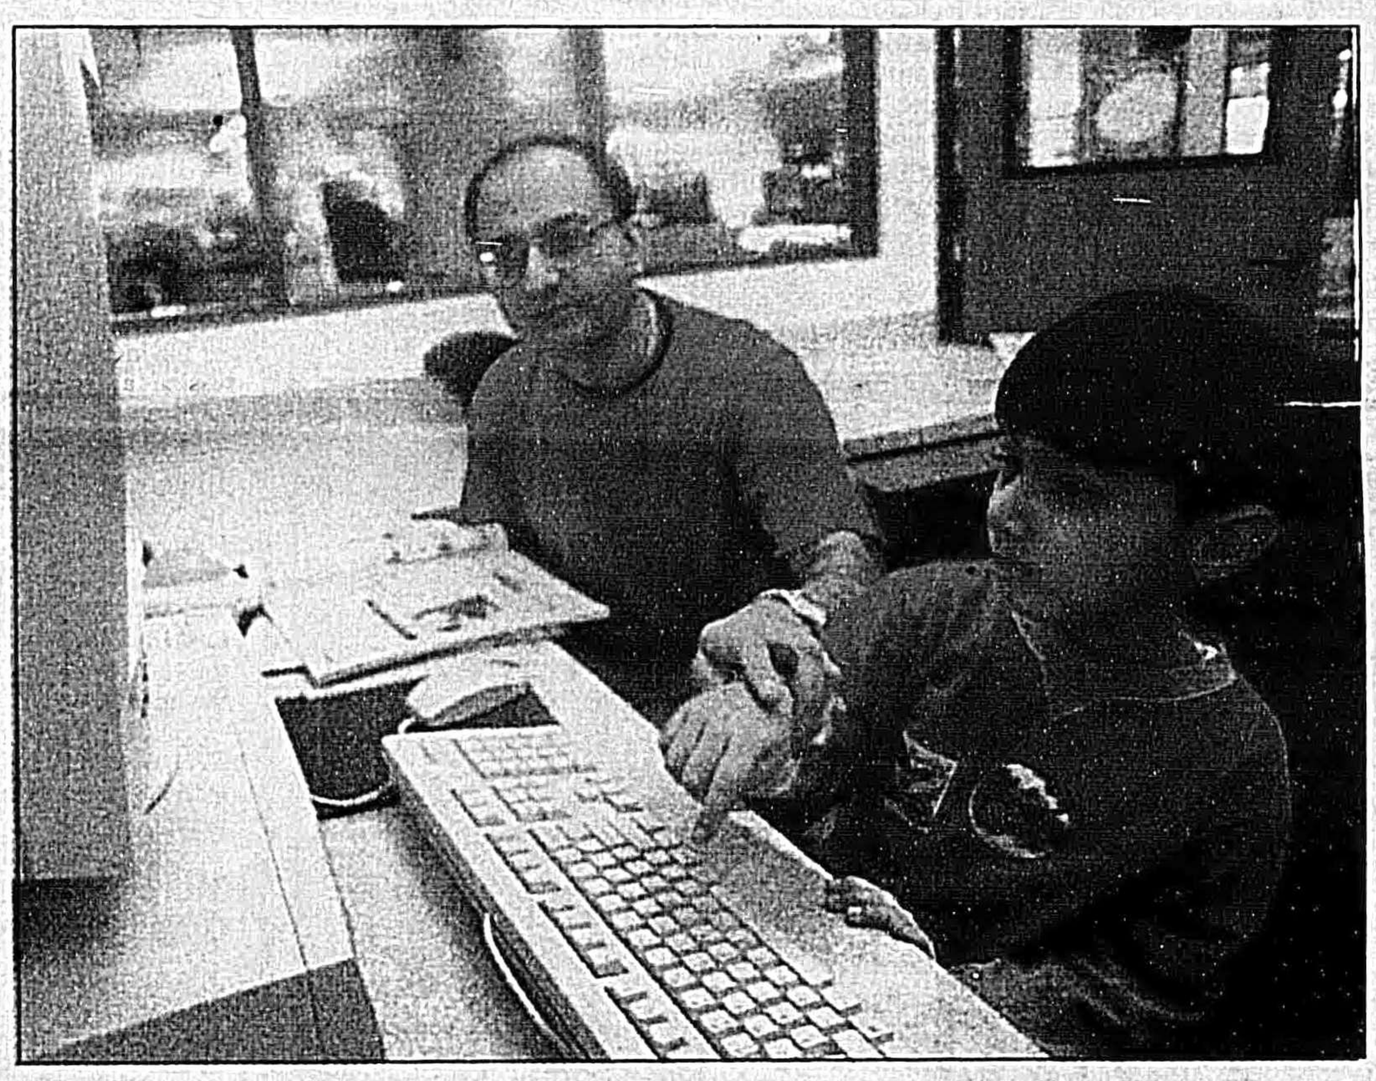

With the section transfer, library officials were able to give children a more spacious learning environment. Now, adults are able to enjoy a more quiet reading atmosphere on the library's top floor.

The layout change also allowed library officials to accommodate a larger book selection and the ability to add more computers. Plus, there is now extra seating for patrons to enjoy, as well as quiet study and group study rooms.

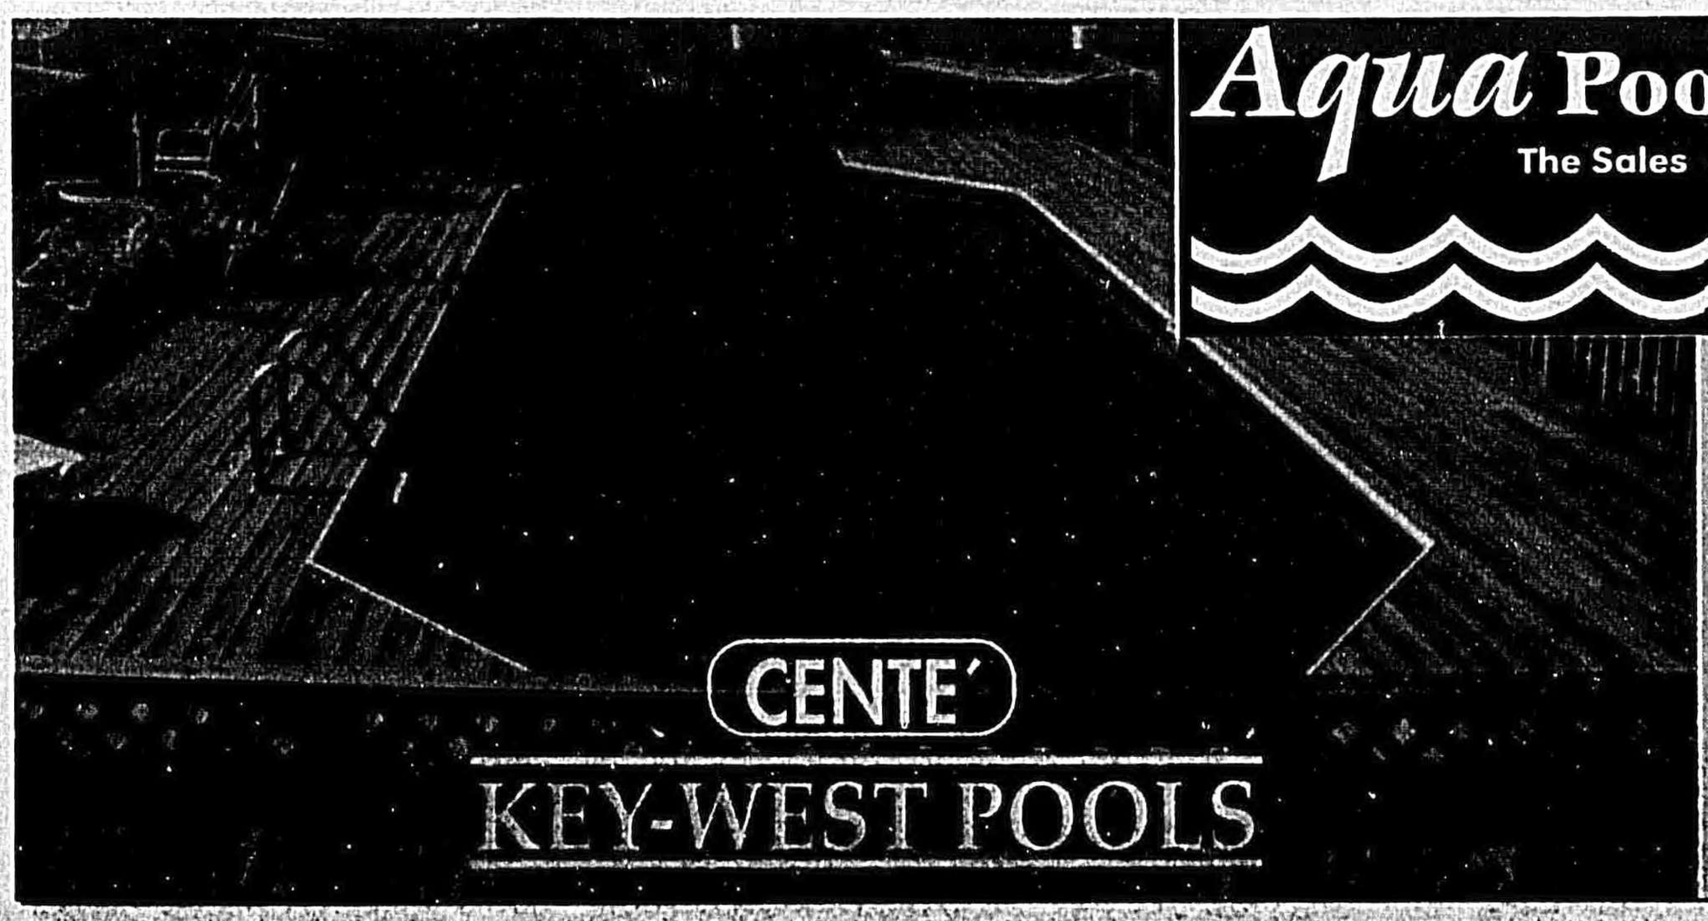

Lake Villa District Library is another location where residents had long hoped to see improvements or additions made. Last year, a 20,000 square-foot addition to the existing facility was completed.

About $1 million worth of new materials and technological advances are now being put to good use inside the library, which is located at 1001 E. Grand Ave. in Lake Villa. The library now offers over 100,000 books, plus tapes, magazines, computer software, compact discs, and much more. Residents also have access that allows them to find the location of over 12 million books from other area libraries through an index of all north suburban libraries.

Everyone's Irish on St. Patricks Day

Area celebrations begin as early as March 11

Gala at Apple Holler

Get in on good old-fashioned Irish fun at Apple Holler's St. Patrick's Day Gala when Razzmatazz takes the stage. This foot-stomping combo performs old-time standards from the Gay Nineties to the Roaring Twenties, with their own blend of Ragtime, Dixieland and honky-tonk music, plus audience sing-along.

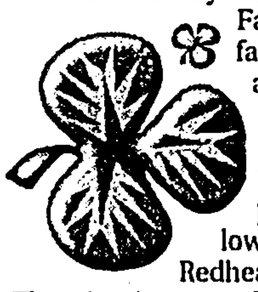

Razzmatazz is appearing through March 20 at Apple Holler's St. Patrick's Day Gala.

The gala, going on now through March 20, includes Wisconsin wine and cheese, a full-course Irish luncheon or dinner and a performance by Razzmatazz. Cost is $29.95 per person and reservations are required.

Apple Holler is located between Racine and Kenosha on West Frontage Rd. off I-94 at exit Hwy. KR. For more information, call (262) 886-8500.

Family day festival & brunch

A St. Patrick's Family Day Festival and Irish Brunch will be held on Sunday, Mar. 11, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. at Duke O'Brien's, 110 N. Main St. in Crystal Lake.

Family activities, include face painting, party favors and balloons, nonstop Irish music, food and fun. The world famous Trinity Irish Dancers will perform at 3 p.m., followed by the Cutest Little Redhead Contest at 3:30 p.m. There is a $5 cover after 3 p.m. and kids under 13 are free.

Duke's Irish Buffet Brunch is an all-you-can-eat extravaganza with a Celtic flavor, served from 10 a.m. – 2 p.m. The spread will include corned beef and cabbage, Guinness stew, colcannon, a roast carving station, a seafood station and a variety of fruits, veggies, pastries and desserts. Cost for adults is $13.95, children under thirteen, $7.95. Call for reservations at (815) 356-9980.

The entertainment scheduled for the festival will include Kat Eggleston, Pippin & Nestor (balloons, face painters), Trinity Irish Dancers and Molly and the Tinke.

Duke O'Brien's continues the celebration on Kid's Irish Day, Tuesday, March 13, from 6 p.m.-8 p.m.

Hottest legs in kilts contest will be held on Thursday, March 15 at 10 p.m. There will be a $1 cover, plus music by David Sarkis starting at 9 p.m.

Also the St. Pat's day kickoff lunch party will take place on Friday March 16, from noon-2p.m. The lunch party will be free.

The St. Patrick's day festival takes place on St. Patrick's day, Saturday, March 17 from 11:30-1 a.m. with a $5 cover after 2 p.m.

The festival includes Nonstop Irish music, food and beer. Bagpipers will appear throughout the day. The world famous Trinity Dancers will perform, along with four great Celtic bands.

The Irish menu features Guiness Stew, Corned Beef & Cabbage, Shepherd's Pie, Pot O' Gold Burger, Salmon with Emerald Mist Sauce and more! No reservations accepted for this special event.

Northbrook Park District celebrates the Irish way

On March 14, the annual St. Patrick's Day celebration will be held at the Park District Senior Center, 3323 Walters Ave. in Northbrook. Adults will enjoy a delicious corned beef and cabbage lunch at 11:30 a.m., followed by wonderful holiday entertainment. Guests are invited to wear their favorite green! Call 291-2988 to register.

Durty Nellie's announces events

This year St. Patrick's Day Weekend at Durty Nellie's will be extra special. They're pitching a huge tent in downtown Palatine and turning the entire weekend into a giant festival for Friday, March 16 through Sunday, March 18.

Irish Eyes Competition will be held on Thursday, March 15, with a $4 cover charge.

The competition will begin at 10 p.m. Quantum Leep, the Thursday night house band, will crown the prettiest lass to reign as Queen of Durty Nellie's St. Pat's Day Festival on Saturday.

On Friday, March 15, Durty Nellie's will hold its St. Patrick's Kickoff Festival. The festival will be free up until 8 p.m., after 8 p.m. there will be a $5 cover.

Whitey O'Day will perform from noon-2 p.m. and also from 5-7 p.m. and the concert is free to the public.

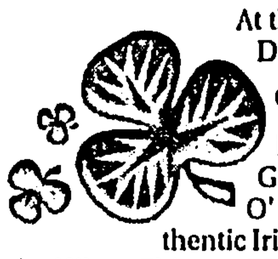

The evening rock show presents American English from 9 p.m.-midnight with a $5 cover on the tent stage. Maggie Speaks begins at 9 p.m. and Sofa King follows at midnight.

The St. Patrick's Day Festival will be held on Saturday, March 17 from 11:30 –2 a.m. with a $7 cover after 1 p.m. (includes souvenir pint glass) with over thirteen hours of nonstop Irish music on three stages. Bagpipers will appear throughout the day. The Irish menu features full dinners and sandwiches with Guinness Ham, Guinness Stew, Corned Beef and Cabbage and more.

St. Patrick's Family Day Festival is on Sunday, March 18 from 11:30 a.m.-5 p.m. and is free to the public (donations requested). Family activities, include face painting, party favors, balloon art, nonstop Irish music, food and fun. Day-long lineup will include Cutest Little Redhead Contest, plus performances by the world famous Trinity Irish Dancers and the Academy of Irish Music.

Durty Nellie's West Irish Pub is located at 55 N. Bothwell in Palatine and is modeled after a 17th century Irish pub in County Clare, Ireland.

Mercy Home for Boys and Girls hosts 'A Touch O' Green'

At the end of Chicago's Downtown St. Patrick's Day Parade on March 17th, Mercy Home for Boys and Girls will host "A Touch O' Green," a popular, Authentic Irish family style party at the Hilton Chicago, 720 S. Michigan Ave. in Chicago.

Approximately 3,000 adults and children will enjoy some of the best Irish bands and step-dancers in the world, a full corned beef and cabbage buffet, complimentary beverages, balloon artists and entertainers, plus much more.

Proceeds from the $40 ticket prices for adults (kids under 12 will be admitted FREE) will benefit Mercy Home for Boys and Girls "Legacy of Miracles' Fund to build more homes for hurting, abused, displaced, and neglected children.

Boasting an impressive, diverse line-up of Irish entertainment, an exceptional Irish buffet, plus many other delights, including face-painters, balloon artists and special "Leprechaun Lunch Boxes" for kids, 'A Touch O' Green" has quickly become Chicago's official St. Pat's celebration for families and friends. Its unique emphasis on family fun and authentic Irish culture sets it apart from the typical St. Patrick's Day bar scene.

For more information on "A Touch O' Green" or if you'd like to make a donation or take advantage of volunteer opportunities) please visit the Mercy Home web site at http://www.mercyhome.org.

HOROSCOPE

Aries – March 21/April 20
Keep your temper in check when a loved one makes an honest mistake early in the week. He or she doesn't mean to cause you any trouble. So, instead of getting angry at this person, help him or her get out of this situation. Your assistance will be appreciated. Scorpio plays a key role.

Taurus – April 21/May 21
Don't keep your feelings bottled up inside when you get angry at that special someone on Thursday, Taurus. He or she can tell that you're upset; don't deny it. Your relationship is strong enough to handle this minor obstacle. So, be honest with him or her. A loved one has a surprise for you on Saturday. Enjoy!

Gemini – May 22/June 21
Don't get stuck in a rut this week, Gemini. When a close friend offers you an opportunity to do something new and exciting, take it. It will be a bit of a challenge for you, but you certainly are up to it. Enjoy yourself! An acquaintance asks for your help with a personal problem. Do what you can for him or her.

Cancer – June 22/July 22
You feel as if you're on an emotional roller coaster this week. One minute, you're up; the next minute, you're down. To get yourself back on track, talk to that special someone. He or she always makes you feel better. A business associate asks a favor of you on Friday. Don't get involved. There is more going on here than you know.

Leo – July 23/August 23
You meet an interesting person on Wednesday, Leo. Try to make a good impression, because this could be the one for you. Just stay calm, and be yourself. Your feelings will be reciprocated. A family friend calls you out of the blue this weekend. Catch up with him or her. You're sure to learn a lot. Aquarius plays a key role.

Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22
Don't get too upset with yourself when you make an honest mistake on Tuesday, Virgo. You don't do it intentionally, and your error doesn't cause any serious problems. So, just rectify the situation, and move on. No one is going to hold this against you.

Libra – Sept 23/Oct 23
While you would like to help ease the tension between two close friends who are fighting, don't. Your input only will make the matter worse. This is something that these two need to work out on their own. So, don't get involved. Pisces plays a key role.

Scorpio – Oct 24/Nov 22
There is a lot to do at work this week, Scorpio. If you are diligent, you're sure to get it all done. However, don't get so wrapped up in things that you ignore your loved ones. They need you right now. Be there for them. It's a fine line, but you certainly can walk it if you stay calm.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec 21
Don't let a minor setback in your romantic life get you down. You can overcome this if you just stay positive. Try to look on the bright side of things, and work to surmount this obstacle. A loved one offers you some advice. Listen to what he or she has to say. It's valuable information.

Capricorn – Dec 22/Jan 20
Stand your ground when an acquaintance tries to take control of a problem that you're having. You are the only one who knows what the best thing to do is. So, don't let this person work his or her way into your life. Just let his or her advice go in one ear and out the other. Gemini plays an important role in all of this.

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18
There is quite a lot to do this week, Aquarius, and you can't get it all done by yourself. The sooner you realize this, the better. Don't be afraid to ask others for help. People are more than willing to assist you. A loved one has a surprise for you on Friday. Enjoy!

Pisces – Feb 19/March 20
Keep your sense of humor about you this week, Pisces. There is a lot going on at work, and not all of it is good. If you can laugh at the situation, you'll get through it easily. Try to help others see the humor in things too. Your efforts will be appreciated.

Auditions for the Bristol Renaissance Faire announced

The Bristol Renaissance Faire announces Auditions for its 2001 season. The Faire is looking for performers to trod the boards and take to the streets on 16 open-air stages and in the shaded streets of a festive 16th century village. Jousters and jugglers, courtiers and clowns, minstrels, beggars, and wenches, all are part of a Renaissance in entertainment and celebration.

The Bristol Renaissance Faire is casting actors, musicians, variety performers, and Kids Kingdom performers for the run of the Faire. Classes and rehearsals begin weekends in late May. The Faire runs weekends from June 30 through August 26.

Performer Auditions: All performers auditioning must provide a current resume and head shot (photograph) and must contact the Faire office to schedule an audition. Auditions will be held Saturday and Sunday, March 24 and 25 in the Todd Wehr Center at Carthage College in Kenosha. E-mail BRF Audition2001@aol.com or call the Faire office at 395-7773 ext. 232 to schedule an audition. There are paid and volunteer roles for a variety of Stage and Street performers.

Casting areas include:

Street characters-Strong character actors to play larger-than-life improvisational characters roving the streets of the Faire.

Variety artists- Jugglers, magicians, puppeteers and other variety artists to perform on the stages and in the streets of the Faire.

We are especially interested in tumblers and dancers.

Musicians-Both vocal and instrumental.

Kids Kingdom-performers interested in children and children's theatre.

The Faire's Historical Guilds are also looking for participants to reenact the nobility, military, Celtic society and the celebrating Peasant Class of the time. No audition is necessary to become involved in a Historical Guide. For further information, see our web site a www.renfair.com, go to the Bristol Faire Location and select "How To Get Involved" or you can call 395-7773 ext.232.

Rehearsals and classes for participants begin in late May. The Bristol Renaissance Faire is open weekends, Saturday, June 30 through Sunday, August 26.

Maple sugar celebration in Marengo

The flowing of the maple sap is a sure sign that spring is just around the corner. Celebrate with McHenry County Conservation Dist. staff and volunteers at the Festival of the Sugar Maples at Coral Woods Conservation Area near Marengo. Take this unique opportunity to learn the interesting history of maple sugaring and the evolution of the sap collection process. Satisfy your sweet tooth with a taste of pure Coral Woods maple syrup. All ages are welcome.

The free festival operates 10 a.m.-2 p.m. on Saturday, March 10 and 17 and 11 a.m.-3 p.m. on Sunday, March 11 and 18. Tours last approximately one hour and involve a short hike just under one-half mile. The last tour of the day leaves no later than 1:30 p.m. on Saturdays and 2:30 on Sundays. Dress appropriately for the weather, as this is an outdoor event.

Reservations are required only for groups of 10 or more. Group reservations may be made by calling the MCCD Prairieview Education Center at (815) 479-5779.

Coral Woods Conservation Area is located southeast of Marengo, east of Rte. 23 and west of Rte. 20 at the end of Somerset Rd. Access to Somerset Rd. is available from Coral West Rd., which intersects Rtes. 20 and 23. For more information call the main office at (815) 338-6223.

Please note: The MCCD announces the temporary closing of trails at the Coral Woods Conservation Area to accommodate the District's Festival of the Sugar Maples. Trails will be closed beginning March 1 and will re-open at 8 a.m. March 19.

REVOLUTION

Grayslake's new public library, when compared to what little space used to be available, is really no comparison at all. The giant facility has multiple floors, a children's section, a very spacious interior, comfortable desks and chairs for studying, reading, or just plain relaxing.

Its proximity to downtown Grayslake, as well as its proximity to Grayslake's newly-built water park make it a prime location for residents who want to do multiple things in the same day. The ample parking is a plus as well. Formerly, residents had to struggle to look for a place to park their cars in the downtown area.

Despite having voters twice turn down referendums to either expand the current facility, or build a new branch altogether, Cook Memorial Library trustees are still looking ahead to the future. However, they face two big obstacles — a lack of voter support, and a lack of available land.

Although a referendum for funding to build a new library in the Libertyville area will not become a reality until at least 2002, board members have found ways to keep patrons happy while they look for a solution to their space woes. Currently, Cook Library stores thousands of items in a space in Mundelein, because there is simply a lack of room to store all the items they own.

Twice a year, a group called "The Friends of Cook Memorial Library" volunteers its time selling some of the excess items to the public. The money raised then goes toward buying newer and more useful items for residents to enjoy.

More than 90 percent of the library district's revenue comes from real estate taxes, which includes a population of about 50,000 people. This number is expected to reach 67,000 by 2020 — part of the reason why trustees have been trying to expand their facilities.

With more people comes a need for change. When it comes to providing learning materials or other resources for residents, Lake County is keeping up with the times as well as can be expected.

SPECIAL EVENTS

Jazz festival to celebrate yesterday and today

For those interested in jazz, its history and current incarnations, "A Tribute to Bix Beiderbecke: The Dream Continues Part XII" promises to please. Held at the Harborside Holiday Inn Express in downtown Kenosha March 9-11, the show features several bands, tours, seminars and various other events. Prices range from full patron admission of $75 to $5-28 for individual events.

Headlining are Vince Giordano and his Nighthawks Orchestra, directly from Manhattan. This 11-piece orchestra was featured in the film "Finding Forrester."

From Paris comes the all-girl band Parisian Redheads. Not their real name, they use it in honor of a well-known all-girl Chicago orchestra in the 1920s. However, they are really Some Like It Hot and play hot black and white jazz of the 1920s.

Finishing up the line-up of bands are Leah LaBrea (the Windy City Songbird) and her Flexo Boys. LaBrea sings obscure 1920s songs and plays guitar and banjo. Her Flexo Boys take their name from a rare 1920s record label that was, itself, flexible.

The Nighthawks play only on Saturday night from 8:30 p.m. to past midnight, followed by a jam session. The Parisian Redheads play on Saturday for one set at 7:30 p.m. and alternate on Sunday with Leah LaBrea and Her Flexo Boys from 1-7 p.m.

Pictured above: The Parisian Redheads and Vince Giordano will appear at the Tribute to Bix Fest on Saturday, March 10. Call 362-4016 for details.

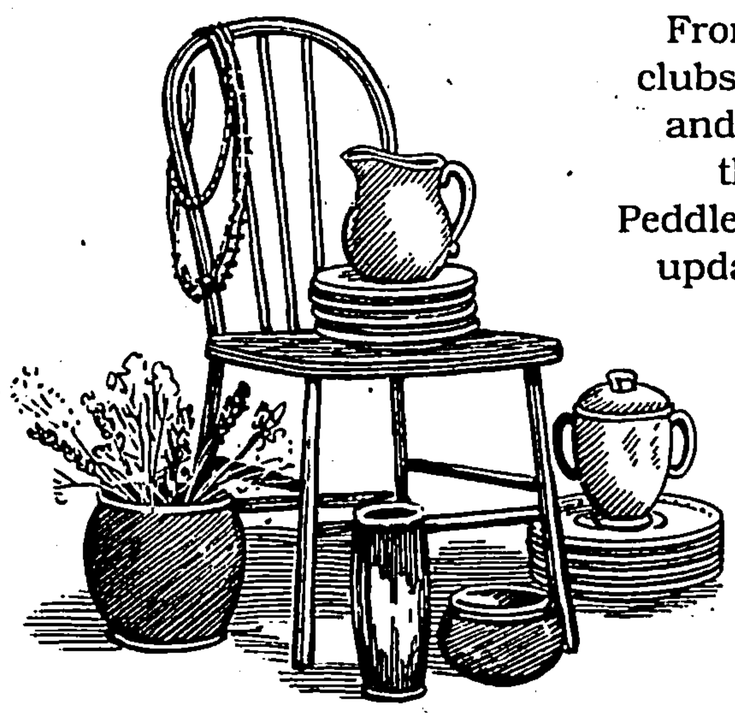

In addition to the musical entertainment, there are new and used records for sale, a $500 mystery record contest and rare label t-shirts, buttons and birthday cakes.

Friday night there will be rare jazz films from Ken Crawford on the big screen. Two seminars will be held on Friday and Saturday, dealing with Chicago's South Side theaters and clubs and the history of LP records.

The Holiday Inn Express (Harborside) is located at 5125 N. 6th Ave. at Lake Michigan's shore in Kenosha. Take I-94 to Rt. 158 east to the lake, then left one block on 6th Ave. For information, call 362-4016 for complete time and price information or visit the web site at www.geocities.com/bixfest.

ART EXHIBITS

The Gallery of Photographic Art at Elgin Community College is hosting an Independent Study Student Exhibit through March 22. The gallery is located in Room 215A of the ECC Visual and Performing Arts Center, 1700 Spartan Dr., Elgin.

Exhibiting works reflecting a variety of photographic styles are Emily Hansen, Burlington; Donna Book, Carpentersville; Gus Stuertze, Carpentersville; and Suzanne O'Gorman, St. Charles.

Gallery hours are 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Monday through Friday and 7-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday. More information is available by calling Ed Krantz, gallery curator, at 214-7405.

CLC hosts exhibit

"Looking In, Seeing Big," a collection of paintings by Chicago artists Steven Carrelli and Louise LeBourgeois, will be on display at the Robert T. Wright Community Gallery of Art at the College of Lake County through March 30.

An instructor at Columbia College in Chicago, Carrelli's small format images of natural objects are painstakingly painted in egg tempera on panel.

Working on small format panels, LeBourgeois, also a Columbia College instructor, paints landscapes out of her imagination. Her Midwestern landscapes represent heavy atmospheric conditions, the play of light and the resulting emotional temperature.

The gallery hours are 8 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Saturday and 1-5 p.m. Sunday. Spring break hours are 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. March 26-30. For information, call Steve Jones, exhibit coordinator, 543-2240.

WinterGreen Festival

The Chicago Botanic Garden will be the gallery setting for an exhibit of landscape paintings by renowned British artist Ben Whitehouse. His mural-sized paintings as well as preliminary oil sketches will be on display in the Education Center now through April 8 during the Garden's WinterGreen Festival. Whitehouse will give a lecture on his artwork on Saturday, March 17 at 3 p.m.

The Chicago Botanic Garden's WinterGreen festival celebrates the the beauty of winter with indoor and outdoor programming on the weekends. Activities include nature and garden walks, demonstrations, art exhibits, gardening classes, special lectures, musical entertainment, and family activities. Admission to the Garden is free. Parking is $7 for non-members. For information, contact the Chicago Botanic Garden at 835-5440.

Hear the bold, brassy sound of Helaine Karlain check it out!

Cook Memorial Library invites you to spend an evening sipping a warm beverage in a coffee house atmosphere while listening to the bold, brassy, smoky voice of singer-songwriter Helaine Karlain. Accompanied by guitarist Neil Laferty, Karlain's voice meshes well with the pop-rock and blues-rock music she's written.

If you like Stevie Nicks, you'll feel right at home with Karlain. The program will be held on Wednesday, March 14 at 7 p.m. at the Civic Center, 135 W. Church St. in Libertyville.

Registration is required for this one-of-a-kind program. Call the library reception desk at 362-2330 to register and for more information.

Bonnie Koloc to perform

Chicago music legend Bonnie Koloc will perform in concert at the College of Lake County on March 10 at 8 p.m. in the Mainstage Theatre of the Grayslake Campus, 19351 W. Washington St.

Described as a "Renaissance Woman" with many talents and accomplishments as a folk singer, songwriter and artist, Koloc has been entertaining audiences in Chicago clubs, music festivals and concert halls since the 1960s. Gradually her folk-oriented style merged with jazz and blues, creating a unique style of her own. Her musical career includes nine albums and a Grammy award in 1973.

Besides her musical talent, Koloc also is a gifted actress, artist and a book illustrator. In 1984, she starred in the Public Theater's production of "The Human Comedy" which earned her the Theatre World Bronze Award for Outstanding New Talent on Broadway and a nomination for Drama Critics Award for best actress in a musical.

In 1996, Koloc brought together her musical and artistic talents in creating "The Bestiary," a collection of linocuts, poetry and song, which won Best In Show at the Iowa State Fair's Art Salon.

For the last decade, Koloc has also been an active book illustrator. Her most recent commission was for "An American Mosaic," published in May 1999 by Oxford University Press.

Tickets are $22 general public and $20 for CLC students, alumni and seniors 65 and over. The concert is partially funded by the Illinois Arts Council, a state agency. For tickets, call the CLC box office at 543-2300.

Church Ministries Convention coming

The 2001 Chicagoland Tri-state Church Ministries Convention is coming to the Forest View Educational Center, 2121 S. Goebbert Rd. in Arlington Heights on Friday and Saturday, March 30 and 31. This event is geared especially for Christian education and other church ministry leaders and workers but is certainly appropriate for anyone wanting to learn how to better communicate with others and learn more about Christian growth and church work.

All the workshops are taught by professionally equipped and trained instructors.

The resource center will be filled with booths where Christian suppliers, organizations, and ministries will display materials useful in most areas of church and individual ministry.

Registration is$39 for two days, $30 for one day if pre-registered before March14, Information may be obtained by calling (630) 279-1155 or fax # (630) 279-7915.

Garden school goes north

The School of the Chicago Botanic Garden will hold gardening courses at the Gurnee Park District.

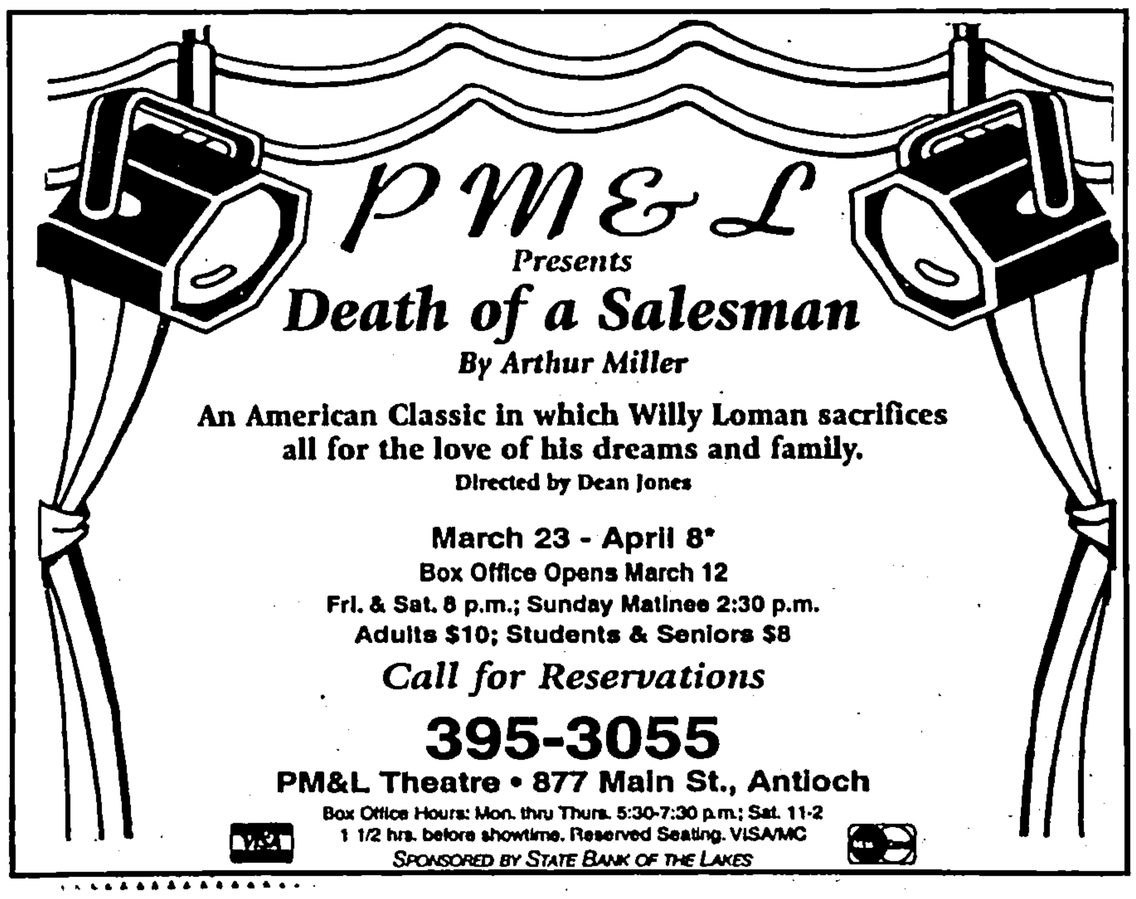

Featured this month are "Starting from Seed" from 10 a.m.-noon on March 10 and "Spring Tree Care" at the same time on March 24.

Horticulturist Glenn Grosch will teach "Starting from Seed," pointing out the best plants to start from seed as well as the proper containers, soil mixes, watering, heat and light requirements and disease control.

Scott Jamieson will show the best tactics to get your trees off to a strong, healthy start this spring growing season, including pruning, mulching, fertilizing, planting considerations, and identifying pests and diseases.

Each program is $21 for Garden members and Gurnee residents and $26 for the general public.

To request a list of offerings at the Gurnee Park District or to register, call 835-8261.

Viewers beware: Don't expect much from 'Monkey Bone'

movie review

Lisa Rowe

From the creator of "Nightmare Before Christmas," director Henry Selick attempts to take his audience into the land of the comatose with his lead character Stu Miley, played by Brendan Fraser.

Although the previews for "Monkey Bone" are quite tempting, the movie itself seemed to be a big flop in almost every sense. Burton had some big name actors headlining the movie, but the plot seemed to lack rationality, especially after the cartoon character Monkey Bone takes over S. Miley's body.

Even though Fraser has to play two totally different characters, the overall acting could have been helped along. Because Monkey Bone is a stop-motion character made mostly of clay, the majority of the time seems to have been spent on developing his part in the movie, rather then complementing Fraser.

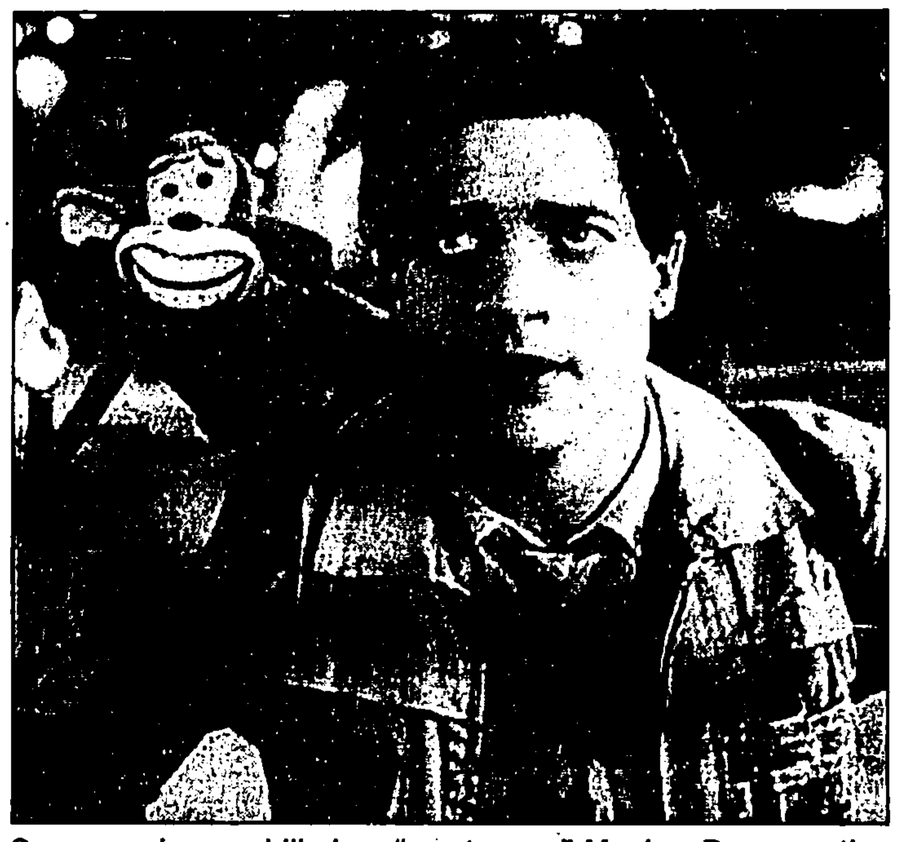

Among the little things that bothered me, there was a scene that took place right after the opening introduction which depicted how Fraser came to be in a coma. After viewing that scene, I could not believe how anyone would be able to believe that it could be at all possible.

MONKEY BONE

Rating
PG-13

Director
Henry Selick

Starring
Brendan Fraser
Bridget Fonda
Chris Kattan
John Turturro
Whoopi Goldberg

Some movies are billed as "must sees." Monkey Bone, on the other hand, is best described as a "why bother to see."

Miley's girlfriend, Julie McElroy, played by Bridget Fonda, brings some rationality into the picture with her devotion to her love of her life, Stu, who she sits by everyday waiting for him to regain consciousness. Fonda's character is well played even when working beside a poorly developed character like Miley.

Fraser's best acting occurs when he is in Downtown, a land between the living and the dead. Here, everyone's nightmares are viewed for pleasure and are ever so real to those who dreamed them since they were little. This is where Monkey Bone and Miley first meet up. Despite having been thrust into this wild world, Miley is invited to a party at Hypnos's house where Hypnos tells him that he can leave Downtown if he can steal an exit pass from Death, played by Whoopi Goldberg.

Needless to say, the duo are successful, but Miley's plans to return to the land of the living are thwarted by Monkey Bone, who in conjunction with Hypnos, had plans to make better nightmares for those in Downtown to view. When Miley confronts Death about getting the chance to tell McElroy how he feels, she sympathizes with him and sends him back, but in the body of a dead gymnast. Most of the scenes following Miley's return to the living, in an organ donor body oddly enough, continue to decline.

Overall, Monkey Bone put on a good show until it actually got to the theaters. Most of Selick's works turn out wonderful, but this seems to be the exception. If you like crazy, wacky and off-the-wall acting and plots, this movie is for you! If not, I suggest seeing something other then this movie.

Parents be warned, there is a lot of sexual innuendo as well as some nudity in this movie, not to mention some concepts that children might not grasp. Monkey Bone is definitely not for the younger generation of kids, as it's humor is mainly geared toward adults. For its good effort but wildly insane concepts, this movie receives one and a half popcorn boxes.

The Attic Playhouse presents 'Little Footsteps'

Jane McCarty as Charlotte, Wally Cwik as Gil, Patricia True as Joanie and David Chrzanowski as Ben in "Little Footsteps" playing at the Attic Playhouse, 410 Sheridan Rd. in Highwood.

The Attic Playhouse will be presenting "Little Footsteps" opening March 9 and running through April 8 on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. and Sunday matinees at 3 p.m.

"Little Footsteps" involves Ben, an immature 35-year-old sports promoter with a tendency for self-absorption and Joanie — a sweet, unemployed artist with faded dreams of success and a volunteer job at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Also in the picture are Joanie's reserved and over-involved parents — Charlotte and Gil. The pending new arrival has the young couple near panic, frantically imagining and rehearsing for every contingency, as they systematically convert their dining room in to a nursery. Ben and Joanie must come to terms with the drastic change their life, relationship... and dining room...is about to undergo and figure out how to be family.

The production features: David Chrzanowski of Chicago as "Ben," Patricia True of Wheeling as "Joanie," Jane McCarty of Glencoe as "Charlotte" and Wally Cwik of Park Ridge as "Gil." Director-Donna Lubow of Riverwoods, Assist. Dir. Andy Purvin of Mundelein, Producer-Kimberly Loughlin of Highland Park and Set and Lighting Designer-Michael Geissal of Chicago.

Tickets are $14 advanced purchase and $15 at the door. Special discounts are given to senior citizens, students w/ID, military personnel and groups.

The Attic Playhouse is located at 410 Sheridan Rd. in Highwood, just north of Rte. 22 and Half Day Rd.

The best seat in the house

The "Best Seat in the House," a presentation by Lyric Opera of Chicago's Timothy Shaindlin, will be offered by Barrington Chapter of Lyric Opera at 2 p.m., Friday, March 16 in a private Inverness residence. Cost is $20 per person and reservations are limited. Please reply by March 14. Send checks to Susanne Wells, 225 Timber Ridge, Barrington, IL., 60010.

For information, call Program Chairman Bob Plagemann (312) 347-5236.

For inquires on membership in the Barrington Chapter (214 members and growing), call Howard Robins, Arlington Heights 437-2158.

A twist on Dickens

The Children's Company Theater of Northbrook Theater will present the musical "Oliver!" for nine performances on March 10, 11, 17, 18, 24 and 25 at its theater located at 3323 Walters Ave. in Northbrook. Pictured are Andy Zweibel as Oliver and David Medansky as Mr. Bumble. The show features 69 children in grades six through nine as its actors and is a musical production of the Charles Dickens' classic "Oliver Twist." Tickets are priced at $7 in advance and $8 at the door. Call the theater box office at 291-2367 for tickets and information.

Auction features works by Jewish artists

A large number of paintings by Jewish artists will be sold at a charity art auction to be held from 7-10 p.m. March 10, in the showroom of Loeber Motors, 7101 N. Lincoln Ave. in Lincolnwood.

The charity is CASA or Court Appointed Special Advocates, whose trained volunteers are the voice of defenseless children who through no fault of their own are in the court system. Judges say CASA volunteers make a difference in the lives of children.

CASA was the outstanding non-profit organization of United Way of Lake County in 1999 and last year was the only organization to receive the coveted Liberty Bell Award from the County.

The paintings, many of religious significance, will include the works of Marc Chagall, Ben Avram, Avram Ebgi, Patricia Govenzensky, Samual Katz, Boris Schatz, Nava Shoham, Theo Tobiasse and others. The paintings, all beautifully matted and framed, will include originals and some prints, numbered and personally signed, said Sherry Loeber, chairman of the event.

Loeber said about 80 percent of the 250 paintings to be auctioned will be in the $50-$300 range with the remainder priced for "seasoned art buyers." Paintings made by well-known artists include from Monet, Neiman, Picasso, Miro and Rockwell. Disney and Warner Brothers will also be auctioned from the world of the abstract, impressionism, children's themes, modern themes, landscapes, seascapes and other works.

Preview for the artwork will begin at 7 p.m., with the auction beginning at 8 p.m. Beverages and hors d'oeuvres will be served throughout the evening, and accompanied with background piano music performed by Jason Peterson.

Couples who bring a second couple will receive a $20 gift voucher. To make reservations, please call the CASA office in Deerfield at 808-9154.

Populist governor was Lake County resident

William G. Stratton

By JOHN KOSKI
& STEVE PETERSON

William Grant Stratton, 87, a two-term Illinois Republican governor, died Friday, March 2, of natural causes at Northwestern Memorial Hospital. He was one of the state's youngest elected governors at the age of 38.

As the state's 32nd governor from 1953 to 1961, he was one of Illinois' most successful chief executives. He spearheaded the construction of Illinois' interstate highway system and the Chicago-area tollway system. During his two terms, he was responsible for building more than 7,000 miles of new roads, nearly 650 bridges and more than 180 miles of Chicagoland expressways.

He worked closely with Mayor Richard J. Daley to develop and implement plans for constructing O'Hare International Airport, the University of Illinois at Chicago and McCormick Place. He also named the first woman and the first African-American to state cabinet posts.

Born In Ingleside on February 26,1914, he later graduated from high school in Gurnee. He was the son of William Joseph Stratton and the former Zula Van Wormer. The elder Stratton was chairman of the Lake County Republican Party, State Director of Conservation and Illi-

Wauconda business owner killed in McHenry shooting

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

A Wauconda business owner is being remembered as a supporter of several community events, always willing to pitch in.

Raul Briseno, age 35, was shot to death Tuesday night at his Burrito Express restaurant in McHenry. He also owned Burrito Express in Wauconda. He was a resident of McHenry.

Police sketches of the suspects

"He was such a nice guy. Whatever we asked him to do, he would do," said Wauconda Trustee and fellow business owner Gail Wittenberg. "If we called, he would help with the Street Dance, and set up and clean up. It's horrible." Wittenberg said the restaurant is known for its great Mexican food.

"It's just unbelievable. It is a tragedy. He was just non-stop work," said Duke Ivers, owner of Duke's Bar and Grill.

The incident took place at the McHenry restaurant, located at 3729 W. Elm St.

The McHenry Police Dept., along with investigators from the McHenry County Major Crimes Investigative Assistance Team continue to investigate the incident. Investigators are combing the neighborhood, trying to locate physical evidence and witnesses. According to reports, the two suspects were attempting to rob the restaurant, and may have been injured in the exchange.

Police have released composite sketches of the suspects along with physical descriptions, as follows::

- A male Caucasian, 18-20 years-old, round face, medium build, short dark hair and wearing a green jacket.
- A male Caucasian , 20-23 years-old, 5-9, thin face and build and thin nose, last seen wearing a black long-sleeve shirt.

"It was a devastating loss to my family," said Rosemary. Mers, former owner of Mers Restaurant across the street from Burrito Express. "Raul worked for us as a teenager. It is so tragic. He was a wonderful worker, always on time, always dressed well and was a people person. He and his brother Sergio were great people persons.

"He just opened the McHenry restaurant a few months ago," she said. "Whenever someone asked for something, he would say 'yes' and help the community."

"So many people in town knew him. He was so well-liked. The family is all about coming to the country and working hard and giving back to the community. My son went over to the family at 11 p.m. last night and asked if there was something we could do," Mers said.

Briseno was supportive of the Taste of Lake County and other events such as Wauconda fest.

Anyone with information about the incident is asked to call the McHenry Police Dept. at (815) 363-2200, ask for Chief Michael Kostecki.

Doros and Wade elected to soil and water board

The Nominating Committee of the Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District has announced the results of its election for two-year terms on its Board of Directors.

Cheryl Doros is a current Trustee of the Village of Grayslake, serving her second term on the District Board. She is Treasurer of the Lake County Conservation Alliance, a member of the Sierra Club, and past secretary of Woods and Wetlands. Doros has always pursued understanding and protecting the environment, and would like to see more public awareness and greater municipality acceptance of the District's services. She would like to continue in her second term on the District Board by helping to bring about that awareness and participation in District activities.

M. Cheena Wade is an Associate Professor of Biology at the College of Lake County, where she teaches Environmental Biology. Cheena is a member of the Lake County Forest Preserve's Rollins Savanna Advisory and Education Committees, a Master Recycler through the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service, and co-founder and past chair of the Lake County Conservation Alliance. In addition to teaching biology, Wade has an avid interest in nature, biking and birding. She is interested in protecting our environment, and looks forward to learning more about soils, drainage and other issues as a member of the District's Board, to help her do a better job of enlightening her students.

For more information about the Soil and Water Conservation District, contact the office at 223-1056, and ask to be added to the mailing list.

Osmond sponsors tougher penalties for 'Club Drugs'

With the use of club drugs such as "Ecstasy" on the rise by children all over Illinois, State Rep. Timothy Osmond (R-Antioch) is sponsoring tougher penalties for the possession and sale of Methylenendioxymethamphetamine (MDMA). MDMA is the active ingredient in the drug Ecstasy.

"The risks this drug presents are very real," Osmund said "Children are being lead to believe that a tiny pill cannot hurt them, when in reality it is nothing but a killer."

House Bill 126 would bring MDMA related drugs under the same tough Class X felony penalties linked to similar street drugs, such as cocaine.

"What makes Ecstasy so dangerous, is that it is made by criminals in unsanitary conditions, you never know what will be in any given pill," said Terry Lemming, Director of the Lake County Metropolitan Enforcement Group. "These criminals market the drug to children, from grade school through college. Research shows that even limited use of Ecstasy can cause brain damage. We need to send a strong message to criminals making Ecstasy that they cannot abuse, and even kill our children."

HB 126 also amends the drug-induced homicide and infliction of great bodily harm statutes to allow charging street level dealers who cause deaths and serious injuries through the sale of illegal narcotics.

Wind power in Lake County to be discussed

The Woods and Wetlands Group of the Sierra Club presents Jesper Michaelsen of NEG Micon USA to discuss the possibilities of using wind power here in Lake County. This special program meeting of the Woods and Wetlands Group will be held Tuesday, March 13, 7:15-9:30 p.m. in the Byron Colby Barn at Prairie Crossing.

Learn about efforts to deploy wind power in Lake County, and a rebate program for installing and running a wind turbine. NEG Micon USA manufacturers windmills in Illinois. Their representative, Jesper Michaelsen will discuss how modern windmills work, and what's involved in deploying and operating them.

All Woods and Wetlands program meetings are open to the public. For more information, contact Evan Craig at 680-6439, ext. 4.

Forum for women with disabilities

In celebration of Women's History Month, Lake County Center for Independent Living is holding an open Forum for all Women living with disabilities on Monday, March 12 from 4:30-6:30 p.m. in the Conference Room at Lake County Center for Independent Living, 377 N. Lake St., Mundelein.

Come ready to discuss how we can educate our health care providers, so that we are treated as individuals and as co-partners in our own healthcare process and treatment. Bring your stories, share your experiences, thoughts and strategies. All women with disabilities are welcome.

Call Linda Dunn at Lake County Center for Independent Living 949-4440 Voice/TTY for more information, and to RSVP.

Lake County inventor

Lake County Discovery Museum Curator Katherine Hamilton-Smith talks about the Amet Magniscope, a rare motion picture projector invented by Edward Amet (1860-1948) of Waukegan in 1895. The Magniscope will be on permanent exhibit at the Wauconda museum. Listening are members of the Lake County Forest Preserve Education, Cultural Resources and Public Information Committee, including Carol Spielman, Audrey Nixon, Mary Beattie and Steve Mountsier. —Photo by Lynn Gunnarson Dahlstrom

STRATTON —

nois Secretary of State.

Betty Tuft of Pistakee Highlands said her mother was an a friend of Zula Stratton. "She instilled in him his work ethic," Tuft said. Zula Stratton was a long-time teacher at Gavin School. She died in 1978.

Fox Lake Trustee Ted Beskow, vice president of the area historical society, recalled the Stratton family homestead on Wilson Rd. Two pillars from the old homestead still remain as part of a subdivision.

"He was a brilliant governor," Beskow said.

After graduating from college with a degree in political science Stratton returned to Ingleside where he worked as a salesman. At the age of 26, he was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives as a congressman-at-large after a campaign that saw him visit 95 counties and average eight speeches per day. At the time, he was the youngest member of the U.S. House.

Shirley Stratton

Two years later, in 1942, he was elected Illinois State Treasurer. In 1945, he ran unsuccessfully for Secretary of State. He then joined the Navy and served in the South Pacific as a lieutenant.

Returning to Illinois, he won his old seat as congressman-at-large in 1946, and in 1950 recaptured the Illinois Treasurer's office.

In the 1952 gubernatorial election, he defeated Lt. Gov. Sherwood Dixon by more than 225,000 votes.

Four years later, he narrowly achieved victory in a scandal-charged election when State Auditor Orville Hodge was indicted for embezzling more than $2.5 million in public funds. Stratton was not involved.

He was defeated in his attempt at a third term in 1960 by Democrat Otto Kerner. In 1968, he sought the governorship once again, but was defeated in the primary election.

Accolades continued for Stratton long after his elected days were over. A lock and dam in McHenry run by the Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources was named in his honor in 1991 not far from his childhood home. "A thousand thank yous," Stratton said at the ceremony.

In 1965, Stratton was indicted on charges that he evaded paying income taxes on campaign contributions. He was acquitted in a landmark case that included help from Sen. Everett Dirksen.

He later served as vice president of the Canteen Corp. and vice president of the Chicago Bank of Commerce.

Private citizens and public officials alike praised Stratton's contributions.

"He was a good friend of mine," said State Sen. Adelene Geo-Karis (R-Zion). "He was able to get along with both sides of the aisle. He was a Lake County boy, a Warren Township High School graduate. A few years ago, he was my guest at a golf outing and he was such a gracious man.

"He was a very decent person, approachable, a beloved public figure," Geo-Karis said.

"Bill Stratton was probably one of the brightest people ever to serve as governor," said Gov. George Ryan. "After he served in the state's highest office, he continued to give of his time and energy and share his wisdom and expertise with many of us in state government."

"I knew him well. He appointed my dad as head of the Illinois Racing Commission. They worked to increase purses so the better horses would come to Illinois," said Pat Page of Wadsworth, referring of her father, Paul Serdar.

"They did a lot to clean up racing and work on racing dates. He was totally supportive. He was an excellent, wonderful governor."

Former Lake County Board representative and Illinois Tollway Director Bob Neal also had fond memories of Stratton. It was Neal who nominated Stratton to be in the first elite group of Warren Township High School honorees. "He absolutely deserved it," Neal said. "He loved people."

Stratton and his wife Shirley celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last December. In addition to his wife, survivors include his daughters Nancy Stratton Taylor; Sandra Jane Gardner and Diana Weiskopf; two sisters-in-law, Marjorie and Barbara Breckenridge; and five grandchildren.

Services were held Tuesday. Interment is in Rosehill Cemetary in Chicago.

In a memorial to the late governor, Grant Township officials voted Tuesday night to name the community room in the new township administration building the William G. Stratton Room.

OSMOND —

"Drug dealers are making profit off of your children," said Osmond. "We cannot stand by and watch helplessly, they must know that they will be punished."

MDMA stimulates the release of the neurotransmitter serotonin from brain neurons, producing a "high" that lasts from several minutes to an hour. Studies have shown that using MDMA can damage neurotransmitters affecting mood and memory. MDMA can also quickly push a user's body temperature and heart rate to dangerous levels. MDMA users may encounter problems similar to those experienced by amphetamine and cocaine users, including addiction.

MDMA's psychological effects can include confusion, depression, sleep problems, anxiety, and paranoia during, and sometimes weeks after, taking the drug. Recent research indicates heavy MDMA use causes persistent memory problems in humans.

Spring's arrival a preserve ritual

Spring has got to be the most exciting time of year for the Lake County Forest Preserve system. Buds budding. Wildfowl migrating. Creatures coming out of hibernation. Birds nesting. Meadows are turning green. What a time to be out and around!

Every Saturday and Sunday through March is maple syrup time at Ryerson Woods. Visitors see how sap is collected and turned into syrup. Then they are invited to make a taste test. The $4 fee is worth every penny. Sorry, pancakes not included.

Selected Sundays beginning March 18 and running through May are given to bird walks at a number of preserves. Staff naturalist Mark Hurley, who knows every nook and cranny of the preserve system, has become a resident celebrity with his patented bird walks. Saturday, April 7, at Cuba Marsh and Saturday, April 14, at Grant Woods, guides will treat you to "Woodcock Walk," to witness male woodcocks impressing the females in a unique courtship dance. Not X rated.

One Saturday on each of three consecutive months Ryerson Woods, Cuba Marsh and McDonald Woods will be open for an intriguing twilight hike to observe "nightlife" in the forest when mammals are active. This year three after dark walks have been scheduled to listen for frogs at springtime ponds. We're told a pond can be a noisy place this time of year when the sun goes down.

Forest Preserve naturalists will conduct two sessions of the 4th Annual Native Plant Sale at Old School Preserve. April 25 is the deadline for ordering native plants that will thrive in your garden. Saturday, May 12, is designated pick-up day and the signal for planting time.

In Lake County, there are forest preserves all around. And more in the making for our world class system of preserves. The preserves come alive in spring. Good places to visit.

Eye alternatives to more rooftops

Two movements are afoot that essentially have the same goal: convincing farmers and owners of large tract land units that they have alternatives other than selling to residential developers when they no longer care to be landowners.

The county, somewhat stubbornly, clings to an approach that has worked elsewhere, that of purchasing the development rights rather than outright ownership, to preserve open space. Philip Rovang, director of building, planning and zoning, is familiar with development rights purchase from his former place of employment, a suburban county near Baltimore, Md. Even Rovang admits that this approach might be too late, given the rapid pace at which development is taking place.

Two candidates for township office in the April 3 election have introduced another concept they call "friendly growth." The idea amounts to talking to large space landowners even before they think about selling. Lorraine "Rainey" Ray and Robert Bohl are campaigning on the notion that when presented with alternatives to more rooftops, landowners are likely to opt for an alternative, even if it means selling for a lesser price.

Ray knows where of she speaks. She and her brothers sold their farm in Fremont Township to the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. so open space could be preserved. Fremont is a vast open space area surrounded by high intensity growth communities such as Grayslake, Wauconda and Mundelein. Ray and Bohl tout "friendly growth," plans that provide for open space, tax producing commercial areas and large tract home sites. That's their definition of "friendly growth."

Getting to the landowners first is essential. That means local citizens interested in slowing urbanization and protecting open space areas have to have worthwhile information to present to landowners. Ray and Bohl see the township plan commission as an ideal vehicle to interface with landowners.

In Lake County, too often the open space debate boils down to choosing rampant development or no growth. There are attractive alternatives to the proliferation of rooftops. "Friendly growth" could be a middle ground worth exploring.

VIEWPOINT

Stratton-Kerner battle like family

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

For Lake County voters, the 1960 gubernatorial election was that toughest of all calls. Choosing between two family members.

On the Republican side, there was the two-term incumbent, Gov. William G. "Bill" Stratton, a household name (first one, at that) for many Lake Countians since his boyhood in Ingleside and teenage days at Warren High in Gurnee.

On the Democratic side was Judge Otto Kerner, handsome, dashing, charismatic, the husband of blond Helena Cermak, who was the daughter of the late Chicago Mayor Anton Cermak who took the bullet intended for Franklin Roosevelt. The Cermaks were long-time summer residents of Antioch, on a first-name basis with their neighbors and townsfolk. Although he wasn't born here, Otto Kerner was a legitimate son of Lake County. With a deep voice and easy, casual manner, the debonair Kerner could cause women to swoon.

Stratton

Ingleside vs. Antioch. Two favorite sons competing for the most powerful political seat in the state. An all Lake County match for the governor's mansion in Springfield, a first in Illinois political history.

In his death last week at age 87, Bill Stratton rightly was recalled as one of Illinois' all-time great governors. He was a builder—highways, universities, airports, parks. Locally, Illinois Beach State Park is a testament to Stratton's vision and political prowess. Technically, Stratton was a wonderful chief executive. He knew where the money came from and he knew where it went. No help was needed from aides or financial wonks when he served in the 1950s.

Despite his successes, starting with victory in his first try for office at age 26, congressman-at-large, and later demonstrating a keen aptitude for public administration as state treasurer, Stratton had political baggage. In 1960, he faced the third term jinx. There was scandal on his call, although not of his doing. Americans were restless for change after eight years of Eisenhower peace and prosperity. Democrats had the electric charm of John F. Kennedy creating new voters and igniting passion in usual hum-drum politics. Otto Kerner fit the prototypical magnetic image of the new campaigner. The media adored him.

Kerner

If ever a governor deserved re-election on the basis of his record, it was Bill Stratton, the no-nonsense administrator who combed his hair straight back and spoke in a high-pitched voice.

This observer recalls Kerner mounting a one-dimensional campaign. The one-time Black Horse Troop commander (shining leather puttees and all) called for one thing: upgrading Illinois mental health facilities. He found a soft spot, not that Stratton was insensitive to the mentally handicapped. Kerner's bid might have seen the birth of the single issue campaign. But the Democrat with exceptional good looks and charm kept pounding and pounding at his single point. You could feel Stratton's support melting away like an ice cube on a hot sidewalk in July.

Even as 1960 was a turning point in national politics, it definitely wasn't a Republican year in Illinois. The stylish Democratic Cook County judge with impeccable Democratic credentials and the Cermak heritage, rolled over the career GOP politician, carrying the state 2,594,731 to 2,070,479 for Stratton. Kerner was re-elected in 1964, another banner year for Democrats.

In the battleground townships of Grant, Avon, Lake Villa and Antioch where the two opponents were considered "hometowners," Kerner defeated handily or carried more than 20 percent of the precincts. Bill Stratton's time had passed. Even his friends were dismayed over his lackluster campaign and preoccupation with a personal animosity toward the first Mayor Daley of Chicago.

Stratton considered a comeback a few years later, but retired to a Lake Shore apartment in Chicago with his wife, Shirley, whom he married after a first marriage to his high school sweetheart, Marian Hook, went sour. Bill and Shirley had 50 happy years together. The two-time governor took up corporate positions, banking and enjoying life as an elder statesman.

Vehicle rollover rating scorecard— there's room 4 for improvement

SEEING IT THROUGH
John S. Matijevich

A few months back, after the furor over the safety of the Firestone tire, I wrote in this column that attention must be focused, too, on the safety of some automobiles, particularly the sports utility vehicles.

More and more information is coming out that reveals that there are safety problems that cause an alarming number of rollovers of certain models of sports utility vehicles.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration recently issued a sort of "report card" on its auto rollover ratings. The ratings gave a percentage risk factor of rollover in a single vehicle crash. It was a "star rating," with one star meaning that the risk was greater than 40 percent of a turnover all the way up to a five star rating where the risk was less than 10 percent.

Forty models were evaluated. Medium sized passenger cars fared well, virtually all in the "four-star" range, or between 10 to 20 percent of a rollover risk. The only car to receive the highest "five-star" rating was the Honda Accord.

Most of the bad news came from the sports utility vehicles, with none of the 20 which were studied receiving five or four stars. Nine models received three stars and nine received two stars, and two models, the Chevrolet Blazer 4-door, 4X2 and the General Motors Jimmy/Envoy 4-door 4X2 receiving the lowest one-star rating.

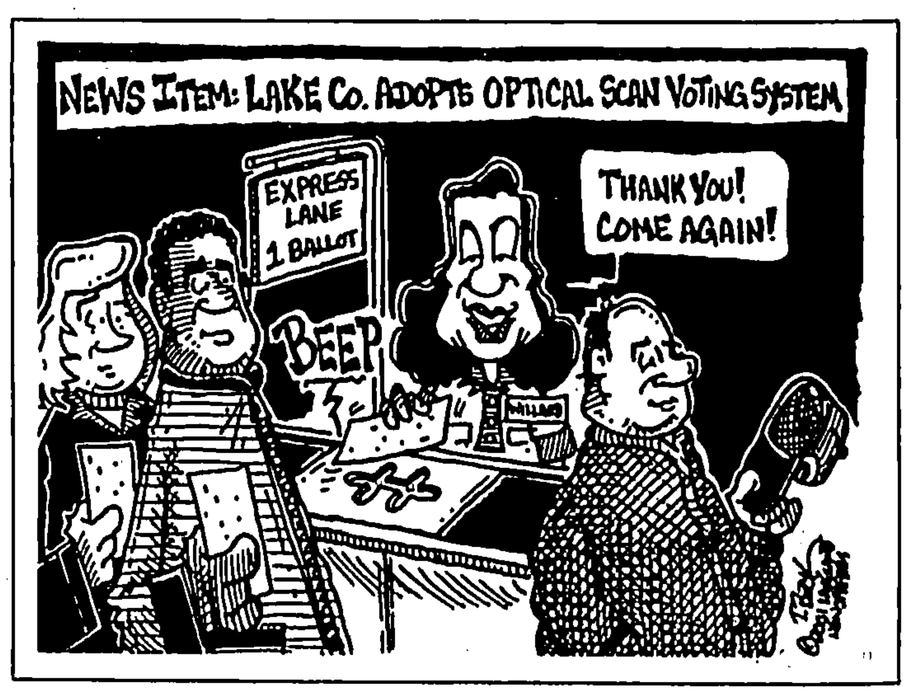

It is no surprise that auto manufacturers have taken exception to the auto rollover ratings that have been released. A spokesman for one of the vehicle makers even said that sports utilities as a class are safer overall than passenger cars. He said that his company will introduce a tire pressure monitor on one of the SUV models next year and it and other safety improvements will be offered on all of the models by 2005.

To me, it is not a matter of which manufacturer's vehicle is safer than the other's. Every manufacturer must build the safest possible vehicle. The rash of SUV turnovers seems to be self evident from all of the publicity about such crashes that something must be done to correct the problems.

What else would any manufacturer do but claim that their SUV's are totally safe? After all, those are their best selling vehicles. It would be like a sports team running down their best star, their "meal ticket." Not a chance.

The difference, here, though, is that there are lives at stake. Offering tire pressure monitors may help, but it is not near enough to guarantee the vehicles against the inordinate number of rollovers. When you think about it, offering the tire monitors

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Uncontested town slate still campaigning for April 3

Even though he's running unopposed, Antioch Township Supervisor Steve Smouse still fits in as much campaigning time as he can for the April 3 election despite a triple-duty schedule.

The Antioch ballot will feature a single party slate in the consolidated election, all eight offices uncontested.

"Basically, I think voters are satisfied with the job being done," observed Smouse, who was appointed supervisor two years ago to fill a vacancy created when Tim Osmond chose to run for state representative.

Smouse not only is following in the footsteps of Osmond, he's a virtual "carbon copy" of his predecessor, down to having dual employment as an insurance broker and serving as an on-call rescue squad volunteer.

The candidate's daily routine usually starts with township duties in the early morning, followed by a stint at the insurance office. Afternoons can be a repeat of the morning routine, depending on priorities. In between, rescue calls are handled. "I'm only a minute and a half away," added Smouse.

Smouse: Osmond disciple.

Powers: Lunch anyone?

Thomas: Political warrior.

On the job

Libertyville township Supervisor RT. 'Mike' Graham is making a point of his accessibility to visitors as he campaigns for reelection. Five and a half days per week, he says. Not every supervisor handles the job, essentially a part time office, this way.

Listening to voters?

John Sherron, a newcomer in Warren Township (Gurnee) politics, is banking on voter displeasure over construction of a new town center without the benefit of a referendum to unseat incumbent Sue Simpson. The first term supervisor is offering a program of services for young and old at the new facility on Washington St. as evidence that she is in tune with voter wants.

Debating issues

Trustee Steve Powell's salary as a union executive, reportedly $171,000 annually plus perks, has become a hot debating point in his campaign to replace incumbent Mayor Marilyn Sindles. Another issue is the spotty attendance record of Powell, 38. If the ambitious young trustee answers both of those questions, he'll have to deal with the fact that Sindles is a full-time mayor working for a $14,000 annual salary.

Helping Greenspan

Officers of the Lake County Republican Federation decided not to increase the price of tickets for the annual fund-raiser, Friday, April 27 at Marriott Lincolnshire. They're helping Fed Chairman Alan Greenspan fight inflation with $100 regular tickets and $250 for patrons, the same as last year. GOP precinct committeemen pay a $75 appreciation rate for the event.

Working for kids

While negotiations continue at beleaguered Round Lake Unit School District for a new labor contract, union chair Kim Kearby pointed out that both sides have agreed to enter into a new agreement that is "best for children." Union members also have endorsed a balanced budget and paydown of district debt. Their contract expired June 30, 2000.

Leaves Crane

Eric Elk, a member of Congressman Phil Crane's staff and 2000 campaign manager, has resigned to join Midwest Public Affairs, a respected lobbying and policy group in Chicago. Elk resides in Gurnee and is a Republican precinct committeeman in Warren Township.

Short list

Prominent Republican figures on the short list for the April 27 Lake County Republican Federation fund-raiser keynote address include U.S. Sen. John McCain, New York Gov. George Pataki, Congressman J.C. Watts, and Mary Matalin, vice presidential adviser and former tv political commentator.

Get together

Sunday afternoon get-togethers for political conversation and an all-you-can-eat buffet have become a staple event for Avon Township Republicans, according to Bob Powers, township GOP chair. A February event drew 80 persons, including Congressman Phil Crane.

GOP recruit?

Republican insiders are talking about recruiting outgoing North Chicago Mayor Jerry Johnson, who was defeated in the Democratic mayoral primary. They say Johnson who has a background in business and is articulate and personable would make a good fit for the GOP. Johnson, defeated by Bette Thomas, 65, was a victim of old-style politics. Thomas is a veteran of North Chicago's Aldermanic Wars. She'll face independent Elroy Reed in the April 3 election. Reed is a newspaper publisher.

Farewell to a grand old name

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

I fear my name is becoming extinct. Not the Pfarr part, the Jerry part.

The name Jerry used to be popular enough. There were five of them in my high school graduating class: Jerry Lemke, Jerry McNamara, Jerry Petersen, Jerry Smith and Jerry Pfarr.

As recently as 1990 the name Jerry ranked 39th in popularity for males of all ages. But I have a list of the top 100 names given to baby boys in the year 2000, according to the Social Security Administration, and Jerry is not among them. Apparently it is losing its allure among today's new parents who are coming up with more modern monikers.

Former last names now are becoming first names, such as Austin, Hunter, Cameron, Logan, Jordan, Connor, Mason, Chase, Blake, Jackson, Spencer and Dalton.

All of those made last year's top 100, but Jerry didn't.

There also is a trend toward what I call cowboy-type names, such as Cody, Dakota and Trigger (just kidding).

There are still some Jerrys around. Three of our most popular comedians are Jerrys: Seinfeld, Lewis and Stiller.

Other famous namesakes include Jerry Rice, the football star; Gerald Ford, the former president; Jerry Falwell, the preacher; and Jerry Lee Lewis, the rock star.

But there aren't many little Jerrys coming up.

Well, maybe in Germany, where Gerald and Gerhart are still popular. My father, of German descent, was named Gerard. So was I, Gerard Jr.

The British long have called Germans "the Jerrys." During both world wars our American forces also referred to the Germans as "the Jerry."

Here in the good ol' USA., the five most popular names for baby boys are Michael, Jacob, Matthew, Joseph and Christopher. My oldest brother is a Robert, now the 31st most popular boys name. But the names of my other brothers—Ralph, George and Earl—like mine, no longer are in the top 100.

If those grand old names are being abandoned, then I don't suppose there's much hope for the likes of Casper, Roger, Stanley, Oliver and Throckmorton, names once distinguished but being extinguished.

My brothers' offspring include eight boys who now are having lots of new little boys, so the Pfarr surname —as rare as it was when I was young—is multiplying like you know what.

In Illinois, Michael has been the most popular baby boys name for 33 years, since 1968 when our state began keeping such records. (For girls, the favorites now include Emily, Hannah, Samantha and Jessica.)

The web site www.babynamer.com says a drawback for the Jerrys are the teasing nicknames they acquire: Jer-bear, Hairy Jerry, Fairy Jerry, Berry Jerry and Scary Jerry. A few of my friends call me Jer-bear and that's cool with me.

Jerry is derived from Jeremiah, the Hebrew prophet of 600 B.C., and Saint Jerome, the Christian Biblical scholar of 400 A.D. Both names mean "exalted" or "holy."

Jerry also is supposed to mean "strong with a spear," but since I dislike playing with sharp objects that doesn't apply to me—unless we're talking about asparagus.

could be used as a liability advantage for the vehicle manufacturers. In other words, if you are in a crash and rollover, they can always say that you didn't follow their tire pressure recommendation gauged by the sensor device.

When a car rolls over, that's serious. Even a 10 percent risk of a rollover in a single-vehicle crash is serious. After all, the probability of a fatality or serious injury is greater in a rollover crash. The manufacturers may have criticized the method of assessing the danger of vehicles in the rollover ratings, but I believe that continued public pressure must be mounted to insure that the safest cars are being built.

Too often, time heals the wounds. You haven't heard too much since the linking of 140 deaths to the defective tires used on the Explorer trucks. When lives are lost because someone manufactured an unsafe product, to the families who suffered those losses, it's no different than if someone murdered their loved ones.

To those who argue for tort reform and argue that manufacturers should be protected against product liability, you would feel different if your loved one was a victim of an unsafe product. We cannot bring back those who have become victims. But, we can continue to demand that the safest possible vehicles be manufactured so that lives will be spared in the future.

Promoting pool

Our family has lived in Wauconda for almost 11 years and I became very pleased to learn that we have the opportunity to have a pool built in our town.

I look forward to having a safe and healthy source of entertainment for my children, myself and my children's grandparents. How wonderful it will be to not have to drive to other community pools. We have become so dependent on other towns to meet this need. The time for a pool is now, we may not have another chance.

Consider homeless

Reading John Koski's story about his beloved dog, Kris, brought back memories of the fine animals I have been privileged to spend my life with. It was a lovely tribute to the family's companion. I wish them the best with their new family member, Rosebud. I wonder though, if they ever considered adopting one of the hundreds of homeless dogs in the nearby animal shelters? Puppies are cute, to be sure. But if the demand for puppies were not so great, there would not be nearly as many unwanted animals needing the homes that families like his can provide.

Please help to support your local shelter. The dogs and cats desperately need it. Do it for a purely selfish reason, too—it feels good to help.

Candidates listening

In a crowded field of outstanding candidates for Fremont Township trustee, two names really stand out: Bob Bohl and Raine Ray. Both have long-standing roots in Fremont Township (more than 30 years each) and have a deep dedication to the community. They feel the need to seriously address the issues facing Fremont Township such as ways that the burden on taxpayers can be eased while preserving the quality of our schools and services. They appreciate the beauty of our open spaces and support preservation efforts in order to maintain the unique rural character of our township. Importantly, they also believe community input should be heard and considered, and that residents should be familiar with the services the Township offers. We can vote for those candidates and have confidence we will be well represented.

Deb Giles

No referendum

I am voting to replace our current Warren Township Supervisor. John Shearron would do a better job listening to the citizens, which is the most important part of serving as supervisor.

In a 1995 referendum in which 9,000 people voted, voters rejected a proposal to add on to one of our present community centers at the township. In 1998, our current supervisor decided to overturn the result of the 1995 election through the majority vote of people attending a township meeting, many of which were township employees. The fact that this vote for a new township center would be taken at this meeting was not even printed in a newsletter that went out before the vote.

The result has been horrible. Instead of a $1 million renovation to the two township community centers, our supervisor put together a plan to build a new $1.8 million building, with a promise of 31,000 square feet. What we got fell far short of that. The current building, filled with cost overruns, was built at the cost of almost $2.3 million and is only 21,000 square feet. And all of this was done without a referendum.

Congratulations to the North Chicago varsity boys basketball team.

While we don't normally cover the Warhawks, I couldn't be happier for head coach George Allen, Jr. and his squad.

The Warhawks claimed their first regional title in 20 years with a thrilling 59-56 quadruple overtime upset over host Mundelein March 2.

"This is one of the best things that's ever happened to me," said senior guard Tremaine Nixon, who finished with 10 points.

Demeautrius Jackson led the sixth-seeded Hawks with 16 points while Devaunn Johnson added 13 before fouling out in the third extra session.

Ahead 59-56, it was Nixon's block on a Steve Plucinski three-point attempt at the buzzer that preserved the upset win.

"I knew they were going to go to him - he's one of their best shooters," said Nixon. "I just tried to get a hand in his face and ended up blocking it. I can't believe this is happening to us. I could cry at any minute."

Don't worry Tremaine because coach Allen was right their on the verge of tears as well when that final horn sounded.

"We've struggled to get over the hump for so long," said Allen, in his fourth-year at the helm.

"This is my 100th game. The first year I was here, we didn't win a game."

Participants can learn the basics of tennis, whether you play stand up or utilize a wheelchair. GLASA will provide a demonstration by its' nationally ranked wheelchair athletes. Instruction will be provided by Mike Carrico, director of GLASA's Adaptive Tennis and director of tennis and racquet sports at Five Seasons Health Club. A $5 donation per family is welcome.

GLASA also has openings for their martial arts classes held on Wednesday evenings and adaptive aerobics classes, which are held on Monday's from 6:30-7:30 p.m. at the Condell Intergenerational Gymnasium, located at 700 Garfiels Ave. in Libertyville.

Programs are for individuals who have mobility or visual impairment such as arthritis, multiple sclerosis, spinal cord injuries and retintis pigmentosa. Family members, friends and other interested persons without disabilities are also invited to attend. Registration for the classes is ongoing.

Call Cindy Housner at 283-0908 for registration and further information.

An ASEP (American Sport Education Program) Coaches Clinic will be held in Rockford on March 17 at the Best Suites for anyone interested in becoming certified to coach middle of high school athletics. The successful completion of the ASEP leader level program is required by the Illinois High School Association for all non-faculty coaches. To register or for further information, please contact instructor Jeff Kyle at (217) 586-4799.

The Chicago Bulls invite fans to FestaBulls 2001-the team's annual dinner and auction. Fans will enjoy Italian fare by Lou Malnati's Pizzeria while dining and mingling with their favorite Bulls' players and coaches, bid on sports memorabilia and raise money for charity. The cost is $150 per person, $110 of which is tax deductible. The event will take place Tuesday, March 27 from 6:30-9 p.m. at the Sheri L. Berto Center, located at 550 Lake Cook Rd. in Deerfield.

Proceeds from the auction will benefit CharitaBulls, the philanthropic arm of the Chicago Bulls' organization. Last year, FestaBulls raised more than $150,000 to support CharitaBulls' beneficiaries such as the Chicago Public Schools, Chicago Park District, Special Olympics Illinois, City Year Chicago and the James Jordan Boys & Girls Club of Chicago.

Silent and live auctions of sports memorabilia will highlight the evening and will feature memorabilia from the Bulls' Championship seasons. In addition, among the more than 75 items to be auctioned include autographed game-worn shoes and jerseys by current and former Chicago Bulls' players and other NBA players. The Chicago White Sox, Cubs, Bears, Blackhawks and Fire have also donated memorabilia.

Over 200 amateur boxers are expected to compete in the 74th annual Chicagoland Golden Gloves Tournament this month, presented by Corona Beer, at St. Andrew's Gym on the city's north side.

Both males and females will compete in up to 72 different divisions categorized by weight and experience. Preliminary bouts are set for March 12-14 and March 19 while semi-final bouts are set for March 20-21. The final round competition will take place April 4-6. Matches begin at 7:30 p.m.

Ticket prices to watch the competition range from $7-$32. St. Andrew's Gym is located at 1658 W. Addison (Addison and Paulina Sts.) For more information on the 2001 Chicagoland Golden Gloves Tournament, call (773) 921-4000, or (312) 559-1212, or check www.ChicagoGoldenGloves.com.

Chicagoland Golden Gloves Charities is a non-profit organization which supports the preservation of amateur boxing in the community. Through event proceeds and other fund-raisers, the organization backs local boxers' participation in national Golden Gloves competitions, donates athletic equipment to various charitable groups that feature boxing programs, and offers scholarships to local school-age boxers.

Bowlers in NISRA programs are gathering pledges this month for Strikes for NISRA, an annual bowl-a-thon benefitting the NISRA Foundation. The event will take place at seven locations during the week of April 2-7. The public is invited to make pledges, assist with sponsorship or come out and cheer the bowlers. The full sponsor of the bowl-a-thon is Coonen & Roth, Ltd.

Partial sponsors are Crystal Bowl, McGarry's Bowl and the Pacocha Family. Westlane Bowl, Palace Bowl, 3-D Bowl, Brunswick Zone in Algonquin and Lube right in Crystal Lake are providing prizes. NISRA provides year round recreation activities and Special Olympics for residents with disabilities in nine communities in McHenry County and parts of Lake and Kane counties. Call (815) 459-0737 for more information.

In its first 10 years, the NISRA Foundation has contributed over $143,000 for Special Olympics sports equipment and uniforms, accessible vehicles for NISRA transportation, summer day camp scholarships for children with disabilities and other projects.

Free Demo: Cook and Eat Healthfully.

Thursday, March 15 7-8:30 p.m. Cancer Treatment Centers of America (CTCA), in conjunction with Whole Foods Market of Wheaton, will be hosting a Healthy Eating Cooking Demo at the Wheaton store location. Those treating how to cook healthy food in the Whole Foods Market kitchen are Carolyn Lammersfeld, RD and Valerie Revemont, RD. Both registered dieticians are on staff at CTCA at Midwestern Regional Medical Center in Zion. Also on hand to answer questions about natural foods will be store community relations manager Kari Foley. Admission is free for the event but seating is limited. For more information or directions to the store, located at 151 Rice Lake Square, call Foley at (630) 588-1500. CTCA patients are also encouraged to attend. For transportation arrangements, patients can call Frank Grant at 872-6185.

Clean your carpets for a healthy spring

Many see having their carpet professionally cleaned as a hassle. From the expense to the drying time to the toxicity of the chemicals, some homeowners, surprisingly enough, have never had their carpets cleaned. But regularly having your carpets cleaned professionally not only removes obvious dirt and stains on the surface, it can also remove dust and allergen irritants that become even more noticeable with spring's arrival.

According to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), vacuuming is not enough to eliminate dust, dirt, mites and other materials that filter into carpet. Dr. Michael Berry, former Deputy Director of the EPA's Environmental Criteria Assessment Office, said that neglecting to thoroughly clean your carpets can be a possible health threat. "I have reached the conclusion that carpeting and fabrics not cleaned and properly maintained have the potential to cause a variety of health problems inside the building environment," said Berry. These findings have led the EPA to recommend having your carpets cleaned one to two times per year.

Some homeowners believe that having their carpet professionally cleaned would only add pollutants to the air instead of removing allergen irritants trapped in the carpet. This might be a reasonable assumption for many carpet cleaning businesses, but one company that has made safety a priority has created a non-toxic method for cleaning carpets. Chem-Dry, based in Logan, Utah, has formulated a solution that stems from the old method of using club soda to remove stains.

It contains carbonated bubbles that literally explode dirt and grime from your carpet. But unlike plain club soda, this process adds heat and powerful vacuum extraction to create a one-of-a-kind cleaning system.

This unique, non-toxic system is one that has been recognized around the world. The Quebec Asthmatic Association (QAA) recognizes Chem-Dry as one of the leading health-wise carpet cleaning companies in the world.

"The most efficient system among all others is the Chem-Dry system. The distinguishable differences include deep cleaning ability and its resistance to bacterial proliferation," said the association. Bacterial proliferation contributes to poor indoor air quality and puts the inhabitants of the home or environment at risk. "the benefit of extracting is the overall reduction of respirable particles which cause most health effects, and can result in reduced cases of biologically induced illnesses, and reduced lifetime cancer risks," says the EPA.

The Chem-Dry system not only removes dust and allergens from carpet and upholstery, but the company's carbonation formula uses one-fifth as much moisture as conventional cleaning and therefore dries in one to two hours - compared with one to two days with other forms of cleaning. This is a vital factor in controlling and preventing the development of mold in your home, another contributor to allergies. A 1999 Mayo Clinic study determined that nearly all the chronic sinus infections afflicting 37 million Americans were directly related to the presence of molds. Chem-Dry's short drying time deters mold and bacteria from forming in a moist carpet - a process that can begin after only four hours.

Along with these qualities, the QAA recognizes that unlike other carpet cleaning chemicals, the Chem-Dry solution doesn't leave a sticky residue, is odorless and serves its purpose as an outstanding stain removal system. These qualities are attracting customers worldwide to the Chem-Dry system, along with the widespread knowledge that indoor air quality is just as important, if not more important than outdoor air quality as the average person now spends 90 percent of their time indoors (EPA).

For more information on Chem-Dry and to find the location nearest you, contact Chem-Dry's franchisor, Harris Research, Inc. at (435) 755-0099 or visit the company's Web site at www.chemdry.com.

Move over 'Malcolm'

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

Hi Dr. Singer,

We have a 12 year old daughter and have recently had the "pleasure" of having her start to act like one of her T.V. heroes. I'm not sure if you are familiar with the show, "Grounded for Life." There is a character in this show named, Lily. She is the 14 year old daughter who happens to be very spoiled and has a terrible attitude and mouth. Our daughter loves this show and is beginning to act just like this character, much to the disdain of her father and I. She was never like this before. We don't want to take the show away from her completely, but wondered if maybe it might be the right thing to do? W.P.

Hi W.P.,

Yes, I have had the unfortunate experience of watching that show and if your daughter is idolizing and imitating Lily, you have my most sincere condolences. I will try my best to help you get some perspective both on the show and what to do.

Maybe some of you remember when I wrote about "Malcolm in the Middle" and what a sad statement of our modern family times I think it makes. Well, this show rivals it for that sadness. For those of you who are unfamiliar with this show, it is about a family made up of two parents who had to get married because the woman got pregnant at 17. They now have 3 kids and are clearly not mature enough to be raising them. They don't focus much on the two younger sons, but what you see happen around the teenage daughter is enough to make any sane person amazed. The girl is the worst version of spoiled I have ever seen on T.V. She has a foul, loud mouth. She tells her parents what they can and can't do. She is only happy once she has manipulated her parents into feeling bad for her so they give her anything she wants. She is disrespectful towards her parents and her teachers (as are her own parents.) The teachers are Nuns and her school is Catholic, private school. The incredible display of disrespect toward religion and religious people is vulgar and at times, beyond comprehension.

I often think that the shows on T.V. are a representative sample of the times. If we look at the examples of parenting we have had on T.V. from the 50's, it becomes blatantly clear that we have a T.V. parenting crisis of sorts going on now. In the fifties, everyone loved Ward and June Cleaver. The sixties brought us Carol and Mike Brady. The seventies brought us Howard and Marion Cunningham. The eighties brought us Cliff and Claire Huxtable and the Nineties brought us Tim and Jill Taylor and the Hughleys. All great examples of good solid parents and good solid families. The new Millennium has been quite a let down as far as parenting on T.V. We have "Malcolm in the Middle" getting all kinds of rave reviews and now, "Grounded for Life." Both of these shows give us weekly examples of how to not be good parents. Of how to fail miserably as parents and how to set the worst possible example for our kids. I have given "Grounded for Life" a few extra weeks, and didn't shut it off after the first time because I thought it would get better. Regarding your daughter, it seems to me you only have two choices. You can either limit her from watching the show completely. Of course, the anti-censorship people are cringing right now. But, you are her parents and she is a minor and you do have the right to decide that for her. The other option is to give her the choice of watching the show as

"No one fought my cancer harder than CTCA"

(Cancer Treatment Centers of America)

"My doctor in Philly gave me 2 months to live. I came to Zion and in 3 months, my tumor has shrunk by 25 percent."

"This hospital healed my body. I didn't expect to be healed spiritually as well."

"The people here are like a family."

"I would have been lost at a university hospital. I know I would have been just a number."

"Why didn't I know about this hospital sooner?"

"You need to tell everybody about this place."

You have cancer. Or you love someone who does. Why consider Cancer Treatment Centers of America? Why leave the care of referred doctors and hospitals? Why travel possibly hundreds of miles for your cancer treatment? Why try new and unfamiliar therapies?

The answer, for thousands of patients, is the reason they come to CTCA. Twenty-five years ago, we determined the state of cancer care was unacceptable. So we embarked on a mission to treat people with cancer, in ways that would make a real difference in their lives and those of their families. Today, our widely acclaimed care, which combines the latest medical technology with nutritional, spiritual, physical and psychological intervention, has served as a model for cancer care nationwide. It is total care for mind, body and spirit.

Just one of our core passions is nutrition. Faced with the fact that more than one-third* of cancer patients die of malnutrition, we realize how crucial nutrition is in an overall treatment plan. We begin with an initial assessment of your body's nutritional needs. A registered dietician creates a well-balanced plan to boost or sustain your immune system, and help reduce the side effects of your treatment. As with every aspect of treatment, you'll become a partner in your nutritional progress.

If you or a loved one are currently fighting cancer, call oncology information specialist Doug White at 1-800-577-1255 to find out how CTCA can help you in your battle.

long as she contains her behavior and follows the rules of respect you clearly outline for her. In other words, she can watch the show provided she doesn't "become" the show. If she "becomes" the show she then has demonstrated to you that she does not deserve the privilege of watching the show (I use the word privilege grudgingly here,) since she obviously cannot control her own behavior. You get the picture. You need to decide which will work for you. If it doesn't change even after taking the show away, I suggest you call again so we can get that behavior under control fast before it de-rails her life or drives you crazy.

Maybe we'll get lucky someday and the "Malcolms" and the "Groundeds" will go away and maybe Mike and Carol or Tim and Jill can come back again. There are good family shows on other channels (Nick at Nite, TV Land, and others. You just need to look for them. Maybe you could get her hooked into something more constructive and family oriented. Try your best and make sure to get outside help if you are not completely successful.

Start building a healthy lifestyle

March is an ideal month to really look at what you eat. The Lake County Health Department and Community Health Center joins the American Dietetic Assoc. in celebration of March as National Nutrition Month. This year, the theme "Food & Fitness: Build a Healthy Lifestyle" is designed to focus attention on the importance of nutrition and physical activity as key components of a health lifestyle.

The three key messages this year are to: 1. Aim for fitness; 2. Build a healthy base and 3. Choose sensibly. These messages are for everyone.

Aim for fitness means setting your goals for a healthy weight and to be physically active every day. More than 60 percent of adults, and nearly half of children ages 12-21 do not get enough regular physical activity. Twenty-five percent of adults are not active at all. Regular activity can help decrease your risk of heart disease, diabetes, high blood pressure and colon cancer.

Build a healthy base means to eat according to the Food Guide Pyramid. On the pyramid, the grains, fruits and vegetables form the base. These three groups should also be the base of your daily diet. Cover your plate with two-thirds or more of these three groups.

Choose sensibly means to choose a diet that is low in saturated fat and cholesterol and moderate in total fat intake. Watch your salt and sugar intake as well. Use the Nutrition Facts Label to help you make healthful food choices.

Small changes in your eating habits and physical activity can make a big difference in your health. Stern suggested eating one more piece of fruit per day or adding 10 minutes of a physical activity per day, build a healthy base by eating according to the Food Guide Pyramid and choose sensibly by making healthy choices using the labels on your food.

Augustana College

With baseball season closing in the Vikings are busy fine-tuning their line-ups. Reggie Hughes (Antioch, Antioch H.S.) will look to be included, as the team's catcher. He is currently vying for the position with three others. Hughes is a junior. Meanwhile, teamate Tony Nelson (Grayslake, Grayslake H.S.), also entering his junior campaign, is will be seeking time at first base. He is also one of the Vikings designated hitters. Augustana, which finished the season 38-8 overall and 17-4 in the CCIW, opened its season last weekend with its annual spring trip to Ft. Myers, FL.

Carleton College, Minnesota

In men's track and field, junior Robert Williams (Vernon Hills, Libertyville H.S.) captured first-place in the 55 meters (6.68) and third in the 200 meters (23.64) in the Carleton triangular meet last week.

Monmouth College

Mundelein's Bethany Bresley (Mundelein H.S.) has also earned All-Midwest Conference Academic honors at Monmouth.

The senior political science major also participated in soccer while earning the post-season accolade.

Bethany is the daughter of Greg and Janice Bresley of Mundelein.

To be eleigible for academic all-conference, an athlete must have achieved a GPA of 3.20 or higher and be in at least their second year at Monmouth.

Northern Illinois University

Two sisters from Libertyville were honored at the NIU women's soccer awards luncheon March 3. Megan Anderson received the Academic Excellence Award for her play on the field as well as her excellence in the classroom. Megan, a junior marking back and captain, also made the Mid-American Conference Honor Roll.

Meanwhile, sister Tiffany Anderson received the Specialty Award, given to the player that shows versatility in playing more than one position.

Tiffany, a freshman, played all three field positions (forward, midifeld, defender) for the Huskies this past season.

University of Wisconsin-Whitewater

Former Antioch High School girls track standout Cindy Alkus, a sophomore at UW-Whitewater, finished second in the triple jump (9.36 meters) at the University of Wisconsin-Platteville Pioneer Invitational last week.

University of St. Francis

Junior guard Krissy Schulze (Wauconda, Wauconda H.S.) scored four points in six minutes in a 78-64 victory over Trinity International. In her last 12 minutes of action, the freshman guard has netted 11 points. The Lady Saints are currently 10-12 overall.

University of Wisconsin-Whitewater

Former Blue Devil and Whitewater junior Keith Kuzera (also of Pardeeville, Wis.) finished fourth in the 1650 freestyle as the men's swimming and diving team placed fifth in the 2000 WIAC swimming and diving championships. Kuzera then finished 11th in the 400 individual medley with a team season-beast time of 4:37.65 at the WIAC championship, hosted by UW-Oshkosh.

Former Sequoit and Whitewater Angie Pederson of Antioch posted a score of 8.65 on the balance beam as the women's gymnastics team lost a close 182.2-171.275 decision to UW-LaCrosse in dual meet action.

Pederson's score helped the Warhawks achieve the second-highest score on the beam routine in school history (44.65).

William Penn University

Former Wildcat Mike Osmund of Libertyville readies for his junior season as a member of the Statesmen men's baseball team. Osmund, a 5-10 outfielder, hit .333 last season. William Penn plans on leaving the Iowa Conference upon conclusion of the 2001 season. The winningest team in the conference over the last 15 years, the Statesmen will make the move from NCAA Division III to the NAIA.

The team opened their season last weekend at the Greenville College (Illinois) Tournament. They also competed in the Gene Cusic Classic in Ft. Myers, Fla. March 4-11.

Osmund is the son of Walter and Kathleen Osmund.

YOUTH SPORTS DIGEST

News and notes

North American Youth Sports announced they will hold their annual spring youth basketball tournament in the Northwest Indiana area at the Purdue-Calumet University on March 30-April 1. NAYS also hold tournaments in Kenosha, Wis. at Carthage College and at Libertyville High School, both running April 6-8.

These tournaments will feature 10 different brackets. They include fifth-sixth grade boys; fifth-sixth grade girls; seventh grade boys; seventh grade girls; eighth grade boys; eighth grade girls; ninth-10th grade boys; ninth-10th grade girls; 11th-12th grade boys; 11-12th grade girls. All grades are based on the grade in which a student is enrolled.

The entry fee for both tournaments is $100 and guarantees each team a minimum of two games. There will be awards presented in each bracket.

The entry deadline for Indiana is March 9 while March 16 is the deadline for the Carthage and Libertyville tournaments.

For additional information or an entry form, call Mark Garrigan at the toll free NAYS spring tournament hotline at 1 (800) 787-3265.

Sign ups

Basketball tryouts for American Youth Basketball Tour (A.Y.B.T.) summer league will be Sunday, March 11. There will be a Lake County Thunder team tryout for boys currently in grades 7-9 on Mar. 11 from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

The tryouts will be held at St. Bede School Gym, located at 36399 N. Wilson Rd. in Ingleside. The team is coached by Steve Krebs, who is entering his 15th season of coaching.

Kitchen remodeling hits the big time

Nearly five million kitchens will be remodeled in the U.S. this year, an increase of more than 10 percent over 1999, according to a survey of 20,000 consumers by Kitchen and Bath Business magazine. And, according to the survey, these remodelers know exactly what they want in their kitchens - luxury items.

"Most kitchen remodelers are experienced cooks. They've lived in one or two previous kitchens and know what they love and hate," said Joan McCloskey, Better Homes and Gardens Executive Building Editor.

"These remodelers are very discriminating about style, durability, features, price and performance on every element that comprises a kitchen. They may make tradeoffs to keep their budget in line, but they'll sacrifice to gain some of the luxury items that bring life to a kitchen."

If luxury is what consumers want in the kitchen, then what constitutes luxury? Following is a list of the top 4 most requested kitchen items to create the ultimate Epicurean's dream space.

1. Great Appliances

Rather than standard, four-burner stoves, consumers are turning to a host of other options to prepare food quickly and efficiently. One of the most popular appliances to hit the market is a combination gas cook top with an electric oven underneath. With this appliance, the home chef gets the best of both worlds. Another new choice for quick food preparation is a microwave that uses radiant or halogen light. Appliance manufacturers claim these microwaves can cook food twice as fast as a regular microwave. There are even barbecue grills, wok burners and steamers making their way onto the cooking scene. Another new item making a name for itself in the luxury kitchen is the warming drawer that keeps food warm for those families putting up with after-school sports or long hours at the office. And, as far as the trend in decor goes, the commercial stainless steel look for appliances is still what's hot in today's kitchens.

2. Multi-Cook Centers

Two sinks, two cook centers, two refrigerators - all of these "twos" are becoming commonplace in the dream kitchen. With the popularity of cooking ever increasing - just note the celebrity status of TV chefs these days - these dual cook center areas provide plenty of space for both staging meals and entertaining. Most of these seconds are appearing on kitchen islands and serve as a dual workspace. Though most second appliances are not as large, they do serve their own purpose in the luxury kitchen. For instance, rather than a full refrigerator, the second unit in the home may be an under-the-counter model used for wines and beverages. The second sink may also be much smaller, featuring just a single bowl, but is a welcome addition for cleaning vegetables or preparing drinks.

KITCHENS

3. Water Filtration Systems

Americans are more concerned about the quality of their water than ever before - hence the rapid increase of filtering systems in the kitchen. While these have included pitchers, faucet attachments and under-the-counter types, the fastest growing trend is filtering faucets. These offer the most convenient and most elegant method to get better tasting water. For instance, Moen Incorporated offers three filtering faucet systems in its PureTouch line for making better tasting sauces, mixes and drinks. These models take out lead, chlorine and cysts. Another convenience that is a must in any kitchen - luxury or not - is a pullout faucet. Pullout spout faucets provide the ability to both clean the four corners of the sink and fill up large pots. And many come in dramatic styles and finishes to complement any kitchen decor.

4. Kitchen Island

Anyone who has ever lived in a house with a kitchen island will never be without one again. That's why it is one of the most requested items in a remodel project and a definite selling feature for new construction. And, as previously noted, islands with functional items like a bar sink are exactly what consumers want in their luxury kitchen. With the ability to match the island faucet to the main kitchen faucet in terms of style and finish - complete integration of the kitchen is possible. Plus, with the main counter space usually cluttered with small appliances such as mixers, toasters, and can openers, having a separate work area is an added benefit. Islands with seating capacity are also doubling as an area for doing homework and for quick, less formal meals - replacing the old "breakfast nook." If a kitchen island cannot be added because of space limitations, homeowners may opt for a rolling work cart that provides extra counter space when needed and can be rolled back into a corner.

Executive homes situated in conservation area

Sales at the Woodlands in Mundelein have surpassed the 80 percent mark with 46 of the total 57 luxury single-family homes currently sold.

Being built by Cambridge Homes, the Woodlands features more than 16 acres of nature areas and open space, mature trees, and a park with tot-lot. Five executive style single-family plans are offered, ranging from 2,783 to 3,387 square feet with up to five bedrooms and three baths. Prices range currently from $328,990 to $386,490.

"A variety of excellent choices remain at the Woodlands where buyers can currently have any of the five executive-style plans built, or choose from two homes that are available for delivery in January, 2001," said Richard J. Brown, chief executive officer of Cambridge Homes. "The neighborhood setting is beautiful with an abundance of natural conservation areas. Additionally, the homes are being built on oversized lots, averaging 15,000 plus square feet that allow homes to be built far apart from one another to create an open and private feel for each homeowner."

The five plans available for The Woodlands offer a number of unique design features such as 9-foot volume ceilings throughout most of the first floors; striking two-story foyers; staircases positioned in areas other than the foyers; specially designed basements with 9-foot-high foundation walls and oversized windows; plant shelves and art niches; secondary bedrooms with walk-in closets; luxurious master suites with available vaulted ceilings including a plan with the master bedroom on the first floor; private family rooms located to the rears of the homes; and include three-car attached garages offering buyers the choice of two-car garages with extra bonus rooms or baths on the first floors.

A new community center is approximately one mile from the community, which includes a day care center and indoor fitness facility, and will soon be featuring outdoor and indoor pools and a new neighborhood shopping center is right down the street from the Woodlands. Excellent schools are another attraction, including highly rated Fremont Elementary and nationally recognized Mundelein High School, which is less than a mile from the community. Commuters have an easy trip to the Loop and O'Hare Airport via the new Metra line that stops in downtown Mundelein.

The Woodlands is off 176, less than one mile west of Midlothian Road in Mundelein.

Re/Max agents says technology is speeding home sales

The use of the internet, cell phones, fax machines and other aspects of electronic technology is making it easier and faster for home buyers, home sellers and their agents to complete the real estate transactions.

More broadly speaking, however, technology has not altered the basics of a home purchase or sale, according to a survey of RE/MAX agents across Northern Illinois.

"New technologies have significantly reshaped the process of buying or selling in very limited ways. Either these technologies are providing access to information more quickly, or they are keeping the various parties involved in a transaction in better communication with each other so things get done more swiftly," said Ron See, vice president and regional director of RE/MAX of Northern Illinois, a network of more than 2,700 sales associates.

"On the whole, new technologies seem to make the process more convenient and comfortable, especially for buyers. On the other hand, it's hard to say that buyers achieve a better result in terms of the home selected or the price paid," he said. "The same is true for sellers. Technology seems to help sell their homes more quickly, but I have yet to see evidence that it boosts the sale price. However, if you agree with the concept that time is money, then a faster transaction is a better one for all concerned."

According to the RE/MAX survey, the are most impacted by technology, especially the internet, is that period to the moment when the buyer or seller selects a real estate agent.

Both buyers and sellers are making frequent use of the internet to learn about the local real estate market, but the RE/MAX agents reported that buyers tend to be more aggressive in this regard.

"We now have a much more educated consumer," said Charlotte Brengel of RE/MAX Showcase, Gurnee. "They use the internet to research properties, learn about the market and focus their home search. However, the internet also can mislead and confuse clients. Often the information on a web site is out of date or leaves out important things about a home or community. When my clients make extensive use of the internet, I try to prepare them for some disappointment."

The internet also has changed the way some buyers and sellers find agents. Frequently they are attracted to an agent's web site as part of their preliminary information search, and in many instances that agent may end up representing the buyer or seller.

Laura Weaver of Palatine, is a good example of an agent who markets extensively in cyberspace. She has established links to her web page on 12 different internet sites.

"I pay dearly for that privilege, but I now get a head lead from the internet once every three days, and that frequency increases constantly. Eight months ago it was one lead every five days," she reported.

Still, most RE/MAX agents agree that the vast majority of buyers and sellers continue to find agents the old fashioned way — because they know the agent or are referred to the agent.

Strong Appeal

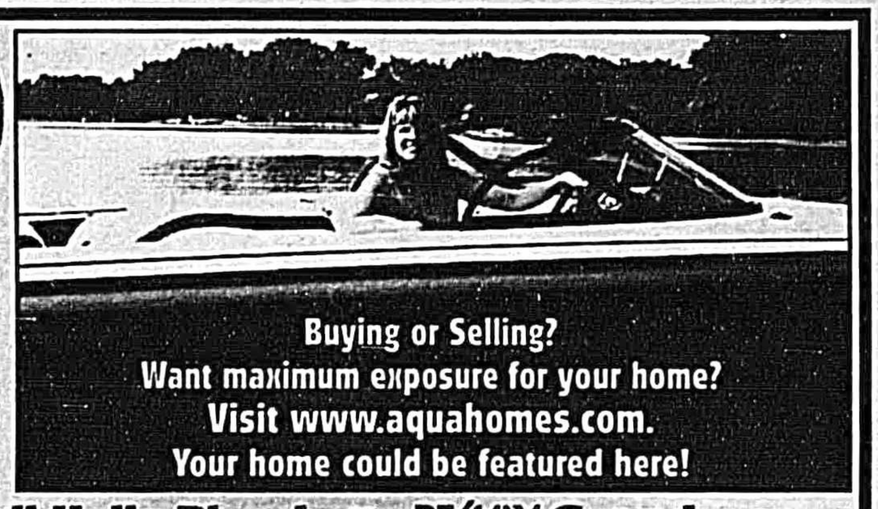

Three overriding reasons make townhomes appealing: attractive pricing, amenities such as a clubhouse and pool, and adjacent to transportation. Artisit's sketch shows Falling Waters in Lindenhurst where base prices run from $116,995 to $124,995. Development consists of 370 units, including larger space homes that can go up to $157.995.

Development features schools in neighboring district

A reasonable price does not necessarily ensure a good value when it comes to purchasing a new home. Value in a new-home community also includes amenities such as top-rated schools, upscale features, spacious lots and a neighborhood setting.

At Madrona Village in Round Lake, a 245-acre community from Palatine-based Concord Homes, offers detached, single-family homes that combine these amenities with affordable prices to create maximum value for buyers.

"First-time buyers and first move-up buyers are always sensitive to price, which is a tough juggling act, because it usually means the buyers have to make some kind of sacrifice – whether vice president of Concord Homes. "Madrona Village appeals to such buyers it doesn't ask them to give up these amenities."

According to Mankedick, one of the key advantages of Madrona Village is the Grayslake School District. Elementary school children attend Community Consolidated School District 46 where nearly 80 percent of the students meet or exceed state testing standards. High school students attend Grayslake High School District 127.

"It's reassuring for our buyers with school-age children to know they can count on the area schools. It's also an important resale consideration for buyers without kids," noted Mankedick.

OBITUARIES

Donald Dean Blackard

Passed away at Bay Area Hospital in Coos Bay, Ore. on Friday, March 2, 2001.

He was born Aug. 12, 1933 in Traverse City, Mich. and later moved to Illinois. A resident of Mundelein for many years, he worked for Jewel during that time and raised five of his seven children there. Don later took an interest in real estate, eventually becoming a broker for Re-Max. Married to wife Phyllis since 1983, the two of them moved from the area shortly after, traveling to Colorado, California, Washington, North Carolina, and finally settling in North Bend, Ore., where he continued his work as a Re-Max broker.

Don was a lifelong avid outdoorsman and bowler. An excellent dancer, he later learned country and western dance, where he met his wife, Phyllis. The couple loved Oregon's natural beauty and spent many contented hours planting flowers and fruit trees, or watching deer in their yard along with their much loved and spoiled dog, "Bandit".

Don will be dearly missed by his family. He is survived by his wife, Phyllis Blackard of North Bend, Ore.; brother, Theodore Blackard of Montrose, Colo; sisters, Shirley Bullard of Kalkaska, Mich., and Dee Pike of Traverse City, Mich.; sons, Martin Noller of Pinellas Park, Fla., Russell Blackard of Mundelein and Ronald Blackard of Wisconsin Dells, Wis.; daughters, Donna Abear of Antioch; Linda Thompson of Mundelein, Edith Brown of Round Lake, and Martha Peleska of Mundelein; stepdaughters, Alison Shelor of Richmond, Wash., and Jennifer Hughes of Des Plaines; and stepsons, Charles and Lawrence Hughes of Chicago, and Daniel Hughes of Libertyville.

No services will be held. Instead, the family suggests memorial contributions to The American Cancer Society, P. O. Box 1551, Coos Bay, Ore. 97420.

PUBLIC NOTICE
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE NINETEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT, LAKE COUNTY, ILLINOIS
PROBATE DIVISION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN OF THE DEATH OF WILLIAM PRUYN. Letters of Office were issued to Frances Cocoran, c/o St. Andrew's Priory, 224 Queen Emma Square, Honolulu, Hawaii 96813, and R. Steven Polachek, 18-3 East Dundee Road, Suite 208, Barrington, IL 60010, as Independent Executors, whose attorney of record is R. Steven Polachek, 18-3 East Dundee Road, Suite 208, Barrington, IL 60010.

Notice to Heirs and Legatees:

Notice is given to unknown descendants of William Pruyn, who are heirs or legatees in the above proceedings to probate a Will and whose name or address is not stated in a Petition to Admit Will to Probate, that an order was entered by the Court on June 19, 1999, admitting the Will to probate.

Within 42 days after the first date of publication of this Notice, you may file a petition with the Court to require proof of the Will by testimony of witnesses to the Will in open court or other evidence provided in Section 5/6-21 of the Probate Act of 1995 (755 ILCS 5/6-21).

You also have the right under Section 5/8-1 of the Probate Act (755 ILCS 5/8-1) to contest the validity of the Will by filing a petition with the court within six months after the first date of publication of this Notice.

The estate will be administered without court supervision unless under Section 5/28-4 of the Probate Act (755 ILCS, 5/28-4) any interested person terminates independent administration at any time by mailing or delivering a Petition to Terminate to the Clerk of the Circuit Court of the 19th Judicial Circuit, Lake County, Illinois.

Claims against the estate may be filed in the office of the Clerk of Court, Probate Division, 18 North County Street, Waukegan, Illinois 60085, or with the Independent Executors, or both, on or before September 9, 2001, or if mailing or delivery of a notice from the Independent Executor is required by 755 ILCS, 5/18-3 of the Probate Act of 1995, the date stated in that notice. Any claim filed with the Clerk must be mailed or delivered by the claimant to the Independent Executor and to the attorney within ten (10) days after it has been filed.

ATTENTION PET OWNERS
WE DO NOT KNOWINGLY ACCEPT ADS FOR ANIMALS IN OUR FREE/ GIVE AWAY COLUMN.
If you must give up your pet, please consider these facts.
*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.
*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are not reputable and are more concerned about making a profit than the animal.
*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

How To Survive The Job Search
By Nancy Sakol

Q: I am writing you to see if you can help me. I am currently on a one year work release program for a felony conviction. It was a stupid mistake I made a while ago and now I have to pay the price. The work release program allows me to work day hours to earn money so that I can pay the state for my fines and upkeep while here in the program. If I cannot find a job, I have no freedom to leave unless it is for searching for a job or for work. My problem is that I have been in the program for three weeks now and can't find a job. I have been to several employment agencies, some who told me they do not hire convicted felons and some that said that it has to be so many years in a persons past before they will even consider someone and even then there is no guarantee of a job. I tried yesterday to interview with a company that provides bus service to one of the schools nearby. The main requirement was that I needed a clean driving record for a certain period of time, and while they were interested in me, they asked if I had ever been convicted of a felony and I told them the truth. They told me that they were unable to continue the interview process because they could not hire people with a felony conviction to work with children, even though I have a perfect driving record. Isn't that called discrimination. No one seems to want to help me so I am writing to you. I will include the telephone number (number withheld) to my program supervisor so I may be reached by telephone and the address here is (address withheld). I would appreciate any advice you can give. M.R. – Waukegan

A: Your clean driving record is great, but while it may be the key to what the company was looking for, the company needs to assess more than that. This is not a discrimination at all. Unfortunately as I am sure you have been told before, when a person has a felony conviction, their rights change. One of those rights taken away, is the ability to work anywhere they want. Employers do not have to hire convicted felons. There are some employers that will take a look at the conviction and may choose to assess the nature of it. Some employers will accept a felony conviction based on the number of years since the time served and the nature of the conviction. It would more than likely be a big help for you to speak with the work release supervisors or counselors, and find out what companies typically have hired their work release inmates in past and present. While I am sure that their idea is for you to make the effort on your own, it doesn't hurt to ask and be informed. Understand that the jobs that may be available to you may be less than desirable to you, but its' still a paycheck and a step forward. Make any and all effort to find a job and stick with it. You need to know that when you finish your time to be served, you are not automatically reinstated into the work force as though none of this happened. You still will have a felony conviction. Therefore, once you land a job while on the program, the stability with the company you are at will be undoubtedly be worth something to you for the future. Hope this helps.
